

10 ARE KILLED AND 56 INJURED IN BUS CRASH

Nine Women and One Child Are Victims of Catastrophe at Sparkill, New York, Thursday.

ACCIDENT CAUSED BY BRAKE FAILURE

Many of Injured as Well As Dead Are Caught Under Vehicle When It Overtakes.

Sparkill, N. Y., July 22.—Ten persons were killed outright and 56 injured, 16 probably mortally, when a tourist bus carrying 67 persons en route from Brooklyn to Bear Mountain, N. Y., capsized at the bottom of a steep hill in Sparkill, tonight.

Twenty of the injured are expected to die, according to police reports from the scene of the wreck late tonight. Those removed to Nyack hospital unconscious are reported in numerous instances to have sustained internal ruptures.

Eight are reported as skull-fracture cases. In several instances women had both legs broken.

Nine women and one child were instantly killed. They were crushed after they were hurled from the careening machine as it turned over after running wild down a half-mile hill out of control.

The driver of the crowded bus, chartered in Brooklyn late this afternoon, lost control of the lumbering conveyance with its human freight, bent on a holiday, when it started down an incline leading into this town. After frantic attempts to check the speed of the bus, whose brakes failed to hold, the chauffeur devoted himself to steering so as to negotiate a sharp turn at the bottom of the incline.

As the vehicle reached a point outside the Clayton Grocery store on Sparkill's main street the driver attempted to make the turn. The bus, according to witnesses to the accident, ran at terrific speed on two wheels for a distance of more than 75 yards. Then it plunged into the curb and rolled over. Many of the injured, as well as the dead, were caught beneath it.

The entire population of Sparkill rallied to the aid of the injured. Ambulances were summoned from Nyack hospital and the most severe hurt were conveyed there. It was said at the hospital a considerable number of the injured had little or no chance for recovery.

The driver, Daniel J. Lusto, of Manhattan, who leaped clear as the bus tumbled over, told Sparkill police he picked up most of his passengers in the vicinity of Gates avenue and Broadway, Brooklyn, between 9 and 10 o'clock tonight. He said the brakes worked well all along the route until he sought to use them on the steep incline approaching Sparkill. Then for the first time they refused to "take hold," he said.

Authorities of Nyack hospital found their capacity taxed in caring for the victims. Five women passengers sustained skull fractures and were injured internally. Residents of Sparkill threw open their homes to those suffering from slight injuries and shock. Six women who remained unconscious more than an hour, proved on recovery to have sustained no serious physical injury.

Panic among the survivors of the wreck caused confusion and hindered identification of the dead. Women ran screaming about the streets and terrified the children.

TWO MILTON COUNTY MEN HELD FOR DEATH OF 11-YEAR-OLD BOY

Husband Blames His Wife
"HE IS WONDERFUL BOY," SAYS WOMAN And Absolves "Red" Grange

Los Angeles, Cal., July 22.—(AP)—Mrs. Charles A. Taylor, whose wealthy oil well supply dealer-husband yesterday charged her with tackling Harold (Red) Grange in a kissing scene, and otherwise being more than ordinarily familiar with the football-playing, ice-peddling, screen-acting star, today, through her attorneys, categorically denied all the charges in her spouse's divorce cross-complaint.

Mrs. Taylor went considerably farther and promised "real fireworks" in an answer to her husband's bill which her attorneys now are busy preparing. Taylor, although he charged that his wife used one of Grange's knees in stead of an adjacent chair, rumbled the hair, patted the cheeks and kissed the lips of the line-busting football player, made it plain that he did not blame "Red."

Said the husband: "I am extremely sorry that this occurred. Charles Pyle, Grange's manager, is my cousin, and through him I have come to be on very friendly terms with 'Red.'"

"He is too much of a gentleman to do anything wrong, and he was named only to show how my wife acted."

In her husband's estimate of Grange, Mrs. Taylor concurred, according to the cross-complaint.

"Red is a wonderful boy," she is quoted as having said.

BRIEF HEAT WAVE POINCARÉ PLANS BROKEN; SHOWERS, HAIL VISIT CITY

Lower Temperatures and Cooling Rains Are Scheduled for Next Several Days.

Atlanta's midsummer heat wave, which reached the highest mark of the year Wednesday with a mercury reading of 96.8, has been broken, and much cooler temperatures will prevail for the next few days. This was the reassuring forecast Thursday of C. F. von Herrmann, local meteorologist.

Thunder showers are predicted for today and tonight. Mr. von Herrmann stated, and temperatures ranging from 73 to 90 are expected to accompany them.

A heavy thundershower shortly after 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon stopped the mercury from its upward climb and the highest mark for Thursday was recorded at 1 o'clock at 94.5.

In the northern suburbs of the city, which were visited by heavy clouds and torrential downpours of rain, heavy fall of hail was reported. Between Buckhead and Brookwood it was said that the hail was so heavy that it made the ground white. The stones were said to be about the size of garden peas.

Hapeville was visited by heavy rains and high winds, windows in several homes being broken by the force of the blasts. Both to the north and south of the city, rainfall was much heavier than in the downtown section.

YOUTH IS SLAIN AT MOTHER'S SIDE BY MYSTERY SHOT

Farmer, Charged With Murder, Rushed to Atlanta for Safe Keeping. Denies Shooting.

UNCLE OF YOUTH ISSUES WARRANTS

Neighborhood Ice Cream Party Ends Tragically As Boy Dies of Wounds. Probe Follows.

Alpharetta, Ga., July 22.—(Special).—Andrew Higgins, 21, was rushed to Atlanta tonight for safe-keeping, following the slaying near here Wednesday night of Gaston Cravett, an 11-year-old boy, who was shot to death following a neighborhood ice cream party.

A warrant charging murder of the youth was sworn out against Higgins and William Carlisle, 25, near whose home the shooting occurred. It is stated, however, that Carlisle, who was placed in the Alpharetta jail, is held as a material witness.

The warrant was sworn out by Mid Cravett, uncle of the slain boy. According to reports reaching here, a party was held Wednesday evening at the home of Charles Davenport, and after the festivities ended, about midnight, several persons gathered at the home of Carlisle and were sitting on the porch when Mrs. Cravett, a widow, and her son stopped in the road in front of the Carlisle home and inquired if Gus Streetman was there.

Streetman, who was taken in the porch and walked to where Mrs. Cravett and her son were waiting and engaged her in conversation. According to reports made to the sheriff, Higgins also left the Carlisle home, walked to where the trio were talking, then returned to the home and procured a gun and again walked toward the trio. Witnesses state that Higgins was fired upon and killed by a shot fired at another. Officers left here early tonight with Higgins in custody and stated he would be placed in jail in Atlanta.

According to the officers, Higgins then left the scene, but was taken in custody today. The gun, which it is reported that the youth was killed with, was found under his home this morning.

As there were eye-witnesses to the shooting, no inquest was held. The principals are all farmers and neighbors and live in a community about seven miles east of Alpharetta.

Higgins denied shooting the boy. It is reported that the youth was killed by a shot fired at another. Officers stated tonight that further investigation into the killing is being made.

UPSHAW, SIMS, STEELE RACE GROWS HOTTER

Speech by Uphaw at Kimball Hotel and Statements by Steele and Sims Add Fuel to Fires.

SUPPORTERS HEAR INCUMBENT SPEAK

Declares Sims Is "Starkly Ignorant" — Steele Asks Leading Questions of Both Opponents.

With Congressman W. D. Uphaw voicing bitter satire against Mayor Walter A. Sims and L. J. Steele, his opponents for the place in the primaries this year, with Mr. Steele's scathing scores the records of both his opponents, and with Mayor Sims formally declaring that he has been endorsed by organized bodies without canvass, though the other two candidates sought the endorsement, the race for congress in the fifth Georgia district Thursday found added fuel for its fast-heating fires.

Mr. Uphaw, speaking before a gathering of his supporters in the Kimball house, defended himself against charges that he was not a resident of Georgia, that he had accomplished nothing during his four terms in congress, that he had failed to seek aid for agriculture, and on many other points. In turn he attacked Mayor Sims, saying that he was "starkly ignorant" concerning national legislation.

Mr. Steele, in his statement, attacks both Uphaw and Sims, saying that Uphaw's most illuminating phrase is "shell down the corn," while Mr. Sims is "thoroughly familiar" with "state" law.

Declaring he believed in friendship with other nations for sake of peace and for sake of "our trade," but was opposed to any foreign entanglements that would pull down the American flag one inch to any foreign country, Congressman Uphaw Thursday night issued a final denial of the charge of Mayor Sims, one of his opponents, made in addresses in Douglas county.

Despite the inclement weather, the large assembly room in the Kimball house was thronged with his constituents representing various branches of organized labor, churches, prohibition forces, business men and others.

Congressman Uphaw was introduced after a number of five-minute speeches by friends who praised his record as a congressman and appealed for his return to the post by an overwhelming majority.

"The 'stark ignorance' of Walter Sims concerning national legislation, as revealed by his Douglas county speeches on Saturday, is only matched by his colossal egotism," Mr. Uphaw said. "The report in the Atlanta papers showed his speech almost from the start to finish to be a 'comedy of errors' and a glittering misstatement of facts."

"Mr. Sims makes opposition to the world court his main plank. The lower house has no more to do with the voting on the world court than the city council of Douglasville. After the passage of such a treaty by the senate as provided by the Constitution it is the duty of congress to provide expense just as they do for all other departments of government."

WALL IS EXPECTED TO CALL COMMITTEE

14 City Officials Affected By Move, Identical With Unsuccessful One Several Years Ago.

The city democratic executive committee probably will be called into session next week to decide a referendum vote will be taken on the proposal to have heads of all city departments popularly elected, it was learned Thursday.

A petition bearing a number of names has been circulated and will be presented to J. P. Wall, chairman of the committee, at once, it was learned. It is understood that Mr. Wall will call a meeting of the committee next week to decide on the question.

The move, if successful, will affect 15 city officials, including such important officials as the chief of police, chief of the fire department, superintendent of Grady hospital and others. The step is said to be identical with one instituted several years ago which failed only after the state legislature refused to grant a charter amendment.

Department heads affected by the proposed change are superintendent of schools, collector of street improvements, superintendent of Grady hospital, superintendent of Battle Hill sanatorium, city clerk, chief of the sanitary department, three tax assessors, superintendent of garages, chief of police, chief of the fire department, inspector of weights and measures, manager of parks and the city dog catcher.

The democratic executive committee must approve the measure before it is placed on the primary ticket of September 8. If passed at the primary election, the vote must be certified and the measure passed to the state legislature, where an amendment before the city charter must be granted before the measure becomes effective.

Rules of the executive committee concerning a referendum on this are silent and the matter of calling a meeting is left with the chairman of the committee after petition is presented. It is customary for the chairman to extend the courtesy of calling meetings when petitions are presented.

Rules require that a majority of those attending a meeting of the committee vote to place the question on the ballot, which under ordinary conditions would require about 35 votes. A full committee is 72 members but there are a few vacancies on the committee at the present time. W. J. Laney, secretary of the committee, said Thursday afternoon.

COURT ORDERS MAN TO RETURN SPIRIT MESSAGE

Declares Message Was Intended for Woman Complainant.

London, July 22.—Intercepting a message the spirits intended for someone else has resulted in a court ruling against Frederick B. Bond, well known London architect.

Some time ago Miss Geraldine Dorset, Cummings alleged in a suit brought against Bond, a "friend of the apostle" sent her a message from the spirit regions. She declared that it was intercepted by Bond and that he intended to publish it. Bond maintained that as the message had been composed by spirits and was "of the work of Miss Cummings' brain, she had not exclusive ownership."

The judge has ordered Bond to return the message to its rightful owner. Furthermore, Bond has been informed, he must pay all costs of the trial instituted by Miss Cummings.

JURY PERSONNEL ASSAILED BY AIDE OF TEXAS PASTOR

Bitter Enemies of Dr. Norris Compose Body He Claims—Charges of Conspiracy Renewed.

Fort Worth, Texas, July 22.—(AP)—The personnel of the grand jury investigating the killing of D. E. Chappin by the Rev. J. Frank Norris, pastor of the First Baptist church, was attacked here today by J. J. Mickle, publicity director for Dr. Norris' church, as the jury recessed until Tuesday.

In a statement to be published Saturday in "The Searchlight," the minister's weekly paper, Mickle alleges that some of Norris' bitter enemies are members of the jury, that it contains Roman Catholics, and that one of the main purposes in the formation of the jury was to indict Norris for criminal libel for his attacks on Mayor H. C. Meacham and others. Dr. Norris frequently has attacked Catholics.

Conspiracy charged. The statement declares that no member of the jury attempted an assault on Dr. Norris' life ten years ago, and reiterates charges of a conspiracy against Norris, declaring that "the conspirators" met on a certain night this week and raised a large fund to hire well known criminal lawyers to prosecute the minister.

Frank Anderson, a prominent Fort Worth business man, who is a member of the jury, stated that the body is of a very high class, being composed of business men and farmers. It is one of the best juries ever assembled here, he said. "And it was formed long before the killing at the church and long before anyone knew that it would be investigating any acts of Dr. Norris."

There are two Catholics on the jury, one of whom I believe is not a regular church member. The other members are Baptists, Methodists, Episcopalians or do not belong to any church."

NEGRO SAYS DAVIS OFFERED HIM $25 TO SLAY WILSON

Ed Glover, Confessed Slayer in Double Murder at Macon, Says He Was Promised Bribe.

$25 WAS AMOUNT OFFERED FOR DEED

NEGRO TELLS SHERIFF J. R. HICKS THAT DAVIS SAID WILSON OWED HIM FOR WHISKY

Macon, Ga., July 22.—(AP)—Ed Glover, negro, who has made two confessions that he shot and killed Miss Hilda Smith and E. W. Wilson, on Saturday evening, July 10, this afternoon told Sheriff J. R. Hicks that he was offered $25 by Bars Davis to kill Wilson, according to the sheriff.

Glover sent for the sheriff late this afternoon and told features of the double killing that he had not given before.

During the grilling questioning from the sheriff, the negro admitted, among other things, that the articles taken from the murdered person had not been burned, but had been hidden in an old barn near the Royce Guano company's plant.

Articles removed. Sheriff's deputies went to the barn immediately but found that on last Friday during a storm the top of the barn had been blown away and they ascertained that an old negro, Henry Tharpe, had carried the articles from the barn since the storm. The negro was taken into custody and he stated that he had carried the things to the home of Ida Williams. She also was placed in jail. The deputies are still hunting for the missing articles.

While the sheriff was trying to find additional evidence and obtaining a further confession from the negro, a telegram was received this afternoon from Solicitor Charles H. Garrett announcing that he would return from New York, arriving Sunday evening, to prosecute the negro.

Ed Glover, the slayer, and Alberta Pitts, with whom he lived, both claimed at first that they had burned the umbrella, shoes, hat and handbag that belonged to Miss Smith.

In detailing the events of the day of the double murder to Sheriff Hicks, Glover stated that when he went out through the fields Saturday afternoon, July 10, to look at a crop, he met Bars Davis, just as he had stated previously.

"Davis told me he had a job for me to do," said the negro, according to the sheriff. "He said it was worth $25 to me."

"You know that Wilson boy. If you'll go and kill him, the $25 is yours," the negro says Davis told him. The negro said that Davis told him that Wilson had bought liquor from

And That's Who Does the Buying

Many an indulgent husband declines to buy his wife's gowns, and likewise he eschews out of matching materials. After all, it is the wife who does nine-tenths of the buying for the home.

It is a very sensible arrangement. The wife has ample time in the morning after the arrival of The Constitution to give due consideration to the advertised offerings for the day; she can do her shopping in the forenoon and have the afternoon for a bridge game, matinee, auto ride or to make social calls.

If she desires she may spend the afternoon shopping from the advertisements in the morning Constitution, and the evening is free to go to a show with her husband, or to join him in some other diversion.

Inspection of the huge plant on DeKalb avenue, Kirkwood, which has been purchased by the Pullman company for establishment of a repair and rebuilding plant to serve its southeastern division, announcement of which appeared for the first time in The Constitution Wednesday morning, was made Wednesday by officials of the company who came here to make the first steps toward actual work on the property.

W. N. Oehm, of Chicago, manager of works for the Pullman company, will be in general charge of rehabilitation and remodeling of the properties, which were formerly occupied by the United States Cast Iron Pipe Foundry company. The foundry company, which purchased the plant from the Pratt Engineering company, original occupants, discontinued operations a short time ago and it was from that concern that the Pullman company purchased the building and the 27-acre tract which forms its site.

Accompanying Mr. Oehm to Atlanta are J. W. Limbach, mechanical superintendent; G. M. Williams, assistant superintendent; and W. J. Keyville, manager of the St. Louis shops. These men will be on the ground to oversee and expedite what work is necessary in future.

NEW YORK MAYOR PLANS INDUSTRIAL DEFENSE OF CITY

Washington, July 22.—(AP)—Mayor Walker, of New York city, has advised Acting Secretary MacNider of the war department of his decision to create a committee on industrial coordination and defense of the city of New York "which will be ready to cooperate with the national government in carrying out the plans for industrial defense."

Mayor Walker said industrial procurement constituted "the greatest safeguard for peace."

The New York committee will study industrial conditions locally and maintain itself in readiness "to serve in case of any national calamity such as earthquakes or floods or any internal crisis," he says.

MELLET MURDER RESULT OF PLOT

Canton, Ohio, July 22.—(AP)—An investigation of Don R. Mellet of the Canton News & Herald was the result of a deep-laid plot of the underworld forces of the underworld of Canton and vicinity, investigators tonight said they are convinced.

This theory is opposed to the one generally adhered to thus far—that Mellet was shot by one small gang antagonistic to the publisher's editorial and personal fight against vice and criminality.

Mellet's death, the investigators now believe, was determined upon by the conspirators of various "rings" after they had agreed his removal was necessary because he constituted an economic barrier to their illicit trafficking.

One lead the investigators are following points directly at the conspiracy. With various scattered leads discarded, temporarily at least, the investigators backtracked tonight to form a cooperative clearing house of evidence. Several conferences during the day led to the evolution of the plan.

One of the tangible items with which the combined investigators are now provided was a catalog of all alleged gamblers known to have been in Canton at the time of the murder, or shortly before or after. This list was to be gone over systematically.

Corner T. C. McQuate today left for New Haven, Conn., with the bullet which killed Mellet and one other, found at the scene of the murder, to get the opinion of firearm experts as to whether it was fired by a rifle or pistol.

W. T. Hulme, president of the Canton Chamber of Commerce, in a formal statement, deplored "the most heinous crime of the century in a lawless city," declaring "Canton is remarkably free from crimes which are afflicting most cities."

Talmadge Urges Voters To Smash Brown 'Machine'

Newnan, Ga., July 22.—(Special.)—Georgia's voters have it in their power in the state democratic primary to keep J. J. Brown and "his shameful political machine" in power for two more years or to elect a man who will administer the affairs of the office in the interests of the farmers of the state, according to Eugene Talmadge, candidate for commissioner of agriculture, in a speech delivered here at noon Thursday in the Covett county courthouse.

Free of Abuse.

"Abuse and vilification have no part in the fight on Brown," Talmadge said. "I am not going to use harsh language in discussing him and his machine. I could talk here for five hours throwing mud and billingsgate, but it would have nothing to do with the real issue in this race."

"The issue is simple. It is simply a question of whether the people of Georgia really want to keep the Brown political machine or whether they want to clean house, reorganize that department and put it in condition where it will really work for the benefit of the state and for the farmers of the state."

Mr. Talmadge delivered a strong speech. He pointed out the evils in the department, which he said the people generally by every voter in the state.

"Every man and woman in Georgia knows the story by this time of how that machine has used its power to control members of the legislature, to elect men who will win in other political races and to pile up as many salaries as the revenue of the department would stand," he said.

"This is now broadcast over the state, so that I want to know if the people of Georgia are going to do about it. What in the world has J. J. Brown done that he should be allowed to drain the state's resources for two more years with his private political machine and with his big family pay roll?"

"I am simply going to present the facts to the people of the state in this race for commissioner. If the people want two more years of the Brown machine they don't want me. If they want to wipe out this machine with one blow then they can elect me and I'll certainly work night and day to get that department reorganized. I am not even promising any appointments if I am elected. I am not promising any jobs or fertilizer inspector jobs or jobs or fertilizer inspector jobs."

As I think these should be reduced in number. J. J. Brown is leading a bunch of jackasses around Georgia with a bunch of jackasses. There are two vacancies made when Lem Jackson and Fred Bridges quit. He is not filling these jobs but is holding them out for a reward to a bunch of men all over the state."

Mr. Talmadge was full of fire in his attack on the "system" which he said is making Georgia the laughing stock politically of the entire country.

Traffic In Jobs.

"This traffic in state jobs, in oil inspector posts, in fertilizer posts, this trading of the people's offices for private political gain must stop," he said. "Somebody has got to start the fight. The first thing to do is to get rid of Brown. The next thing to do is to put a reorganization plan before the legislature which will win the support of that body."

"I want you people to vote for me because I am the only man in the race who has got a chance to beat Brown. I say this because of the peculiar situation which has developed because of several anti-Brown candidates in the race. From the assurances I have received of support from men and women over the state who want to see real efficiency in the department of agriculture I am certain that I am the logical candidate to make the fight for this reorganization."

"In this race I was the first man to announce a platform calling for complete reorganization and now all the other candidates have adopted this platform, including Brown. Mr. Irwin, of Sanderville, retired from this race in my favor only after he had gone to my farm and convinced himself that I was really a genuine dirt farmer, actually working on a farm and facing the problems faced by all farmers of Georgia."

"I have received word from many of our friends of Mr. Mills that they will support me and if I am given the support of those who want to see the Brown machine destroyed I am a certain winner by a big majority."

J. J. Brown has served in his office 10 years. What has he done for the people of Georgia? This is the most damaging thing that can be said about the commissioner. What has he done? I defy him or anyone else to offer one good reason why he should be allowed to continue him and his machine in power in this state for two more years. The time to get rid of him is now. This is the election which should spell his political doom. He's done enough damage in Georgia politics and the worst of all we can do is to give him and his inspectors and his fertilizer inspectors a long rest in private life. If he were in that office he would make good in two years then kick me out."

Legislation Controlled.

Mr. Talmadge cited numerous incidents of where the Brown machine had sought to control votes and had controlled votes in both branches of the legislature. He reviewed his charges that Brown is assessed the employees a designated per cent of their annual salary or fees for a campaign fund.

"He does not even spare the girl stenographers in some of the departments but makes those girls produce $50 to $100 for campaign money," Talmadge charged.

Mr. Talmadge then told of an incident where Cobb Holland, a one-legged world war veteran, of Monroe county, was called on to contribute to one of Brown's agents, who told Holland the money was to be used in fixing the legislature to prevent the passage of a bill to reduce the number of oil inspectors from 131 to six.

Mr. Talmadge charged that J. J. Brown appeared with lobbyists before the fertilizer companies before the legislature and fought the passage of the Lindbergh bill which would establish the same fertilizer laws in Georgia that are in force in Alabama.

"Brown was working for the Armour Fertilizer company when he was first elected as commissioner of agriculture and so was Lem B. Jackson, who was appointed chief of the markets bureau by Brown soon after he was first elected," Talmadge charged.

Discussing the state markets bulletin Talmadge said he does not favor stopping this publication but said he would like to see it controlled by the farmers of the state, farm products for less money than is now being spent for its publication.

Talmadge reviewed his suggestions for a plan for reorganization which he said would place the department on a footing where political manipulation would be reduced to a minimum and where the department at least would have a chance to function. He cited a report of State Auditor Sam J. Rife which said the department of agriculture spends around a million dollars a year and that under the obsolete system of checking used it is next to impossible to check up on where this money goes and for what purpose it is expended.

"This crucial situation in Georgia has reached a stage now where it is squarely up to the voters," Talmadge said. "I am going over the heads of the petty politicians and making my appeal to the people themselves. If they want two more years of Brown they can get it. If they want to shatter that machine once and for all and get a reorganized department, then they should vote for me."

Eugene Talmadge, candidate for commissioner of agriculture, announced Thursday several speaking dates for the next few days. He will speak to Floyd county voters at Rome at 11:30 o'clock Friday morning. He will speak to Carroll county voters at Carrollton at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. Saturday afternoon he will speak at Bowdon at 2 o'clock and at Villa Rica at 4 o'clock.

ington and their children in school there all the time.

"A man's citizenship is where he pays his poll tax and votes. A man who does not know this does not know enough to be a member of congress," Mr. Uphaw declared.

Tax Collector's Letter.

The congressman read a letter signed by W. S. Richardson, tax collector of Fulton county, which was received by him on July 21, 1928, in regard to the registration of Congressmen and Mrs. Uphaw. The letter follows:

"My dear Congressman:

In reply to your request for certificate of registration in Fulton county, Georgia, it gives me pleasure to certify that both you and Mrs. Uphaw are registered voters in this county and have been so for a number of years. I might also add that state and county taxes, which of course include poll tax, of both of you and yourself, have been paid up to and including the year 1926."

(Signed) W. S. RICHARDSON, Tax Collector, Fulton County, Georgia.

In referring to the charges of Mr. Richardson that he had been pressing his opinion as to Atlanta's viewpoint concerning Uphaw as a congressman. Congressman Russell asserted the so-called "economic campaign" of Mayor Walter Sims in the city of Atlanta, declaring that Mayor Sims had vetoed a number of bills tending to increase the salary of unskilled city employees. This was done, according to Mr. Russell, merely as a political trick, to make the people think that he was economical. "Water rates and tax assessments amounting to approximately $2,000,000 per year have been raised during Mayor Sims' administration—more than taxes have been increased during an administration in years. When a candidate makes a platform should live up to it," Mr. Russell added.

Other speakers included Walter McElreath, Dr. Elam F. Dempsey, J. R. Bachman and Rev. Luke Rader. Congressman Uphaw spoke twice Thursday, having delivered an address at the Sunday school convention at Sandy Springs earlier in the day. Judge T. O. Hathcock, of the municipal court, was also a speaker at the convention.

Demops Expulsion From Klan.

Dispatches from Baltimore indicating that Congressman Uphaw had been expelled from the Ku Klux Klan were denied here Thursday night by Nathan Bedford Forrest, head of the realm of Georgia, for the organization. "The Klan has never expelled me," Uphaw had never been an active member of the organization.

Congressman Uphaw, when questioned in regard to the dispatches, denied that he had ever been expelled. "The Klan has never expelled me," Uphaw had never been an active member of the organization.

Steel Issues Statement.

Declaring that Walter Sims was trying to leave him out in the cold by challenging Congressman Uphaw to a joint debate without giving him the same consideration, L. J. Steele made a statement Wednesday offering suggestions to both candidates on questions which he thought should be propounded in the debate.

At the end of each question Mr. Steele had fixed for Mr. Sims to ask a question in the dispatches, the phrase "shell down the corn." As for the questions Mr. Uphaw was to ask Mr. Steele, should be take Mr. Steele's suggestion he would make it up to Mr. Sims. Mr. Steele stated that this was a term with which the mayor was thoroughly familiar.

"A joint debate between Sims and Uphaw would certainly be illuminating," he said.

"I hope Sims gets through with his four speeches right away, because I see he has left me out in the cold. He says he wants to give me a few questions he might propound to Uphaw."

Suggested Queries.

"Mr. Sims—Mr. Uphaw, as you have come back to your people empty handed for eight years, why should you expect them to believe that you will do any more for them in the future than you have done in the past?"

"Mr. Uphaw, tell the people just how many thousands of dollars you have gotten out of the pockets of the prohibitionists at $75 for your sermons. 'Shell down the corn.'"

"Mr. Uphaw, tell the people of this district how much money you have had paid you by federal prisoners or their distressed families for your assistance in obtaining paroles. 'Shell down the corn.'"

"Mr. Uphaw, please tell us why you cashed that poor fellow's check and put the money in your pocket and kept it, when you know it did not belong to you. If you say you ever wrote or filed a claim with the Pullman company for any amount of rebate in your life, be kind enough to tell the people the date you filed it and the amount you claimed. If you can't fix the date, at least fix the year. 'Please shell down the corn.'"

"Mr. Uphaw, when are you and Mrs. Uphaw going to move down with the children from North Carolina and live among and be citizens with us? By the way, won't you buy a Georgia automobile license tag for that car of yours while you are down here on this trip? You know you have that car listed for taxes in North Carolina, and you might at least buy a tag down here to help us maintain our roads in Georgia. 'Shell down the corn.'"

"There are a great many other questions I would ask Mr. Uphaw if I were permitted by Mr. Sims to participate in this debate, but I will ask these later. As I want to be absolutely impartial as between Uphaw and Sims, the truth being that I really do not care which one of them runs at the tail end of the stick, I am going to suggest to Mr. Uphaw some questions to ask Mr. Sims in this great joint debate, they are pulling off all to themselves."

"Mr. Uphaw—Mr. Sims, when did you become so conscience-stricken in behalf of the farmer and the farmer of the state met a day or two ago for the purpose of canvassing and selecting among others a representative from this Fifth district of Georgia, in congress."

Made No Canvass.

"In view of the fact that a canvass and a personal campaign was made by one of my opponents for this personality, but in real sense, I will not even suggest these questions to Mr. Uphaw.

"Let me improve you two gentlemen who have decided to have a joint debate to be perfectly frank and truthful with the people about your public records, and if you should go into personal matters—where?"

Fraud of Indorsement.

Declaring that he had not made a canvass and a personal campaign for indorsement as made by one of his opponents in the Fifth district congressional race but had left it to the good judgment of the legislative committee from the organizations, Mayor Walter A. Sims Thursday issued a statement expressing his sincere appreciation for the indorsement of him by representatives of labor and agricultural interests of the state.

His statement follows:

"I see in the papers where the committee from organized labor and the farmers of the state met a day or two ago for the purpose of canvassing and selecting among others a representative from this Fifth district of Georgia, in congress."

Made No Canvass.

Avoid Poorly Balanced Breakfasts

That's Where the Great Dietary Mistake is Made

IF YOU feel tired, hungry, "fidgety" hours before lunch, don't jump to the conclusion of poor health. Thousands have unenergetic mornings because they start the day with wrong breakfasts.

To feel right, you must have a well-balanced, complete breakfast ration. At most other meals—lunch and dinner—you get it. But breakfast is a hurried meal, often badly chosen.

Thus Quaker Oats, containing 16% protein, food's great tissue builder, 58% carbohydrate, its great energy element, plus all-important vitamins and the "bulk" that makes laxatives seldom needed, is the dietetic urge of the world today.

It is food that "stands by" you through the morning. Don't deny yourself the natural stimulation this rich food offers you.

Get Quaker Oats today. Grocers have two kinds: Quick Quaker, which cooks in 3 to 5 minutes, and Quaker Oats.

Guard Murdered In Daring Prison Break in Texas

Huntsville, Texas, July 22.—(AP)—Two men believed to have been former inmates, shot and killed a guard at the Ferguson prison farm near here early today and freed six convicts, in one of the most sensational prison deliveries in the history of Texas.

The eight men escaped in a motor car under fire of other guards. All had ended capture tonight.

After an investigation Warden N. L. Speer, of the Huntsville penitentiary, expressed the belief that the two men who engineered the delivery were convicts who had escaped recently from the farm. On information furnished by convicts he is seeking Harvey Ennis, who escaped 10 days ago, and Charles Frazier, also an escaped prisoner.

The first inkling of trouble came when three shots from an automatic shotgun were fired point-blank into the body of Picket Guard Will Rader, 50 years old, the father of five children. Rader was killed instantly.

When the shooting began, the building tender, Pat McCoy, a trusty, switched off all lights in the prisoners' quarters. The man who did the shooting called out the names of six prisoners and told them to strike matches and get ready to leave. He went directly to the inner compartment and unlocked the door to the prisoners' lockup, with keys taken from Rader.

When the first shots were fired, John Kittlebank, who was standing outside of the building from a point in the rear of the camp, made a dash for the front door. He was stopped by a shot from a man stationed in front of the building.

Frank Dowlin, a guard, awoke with the first shot and rushed out of his sleeping quarters. The prisoners and deliverers had gathered in front of the building by this time and one of the men fired at him. Kittlebank began firing at the fleeing party and Dowlin also emptied his pistol at them.

The convicts and their liberators hastened to a parked touring car, and the highway, fired two more shots and fled.

None of the other prisoners in the building attempted to escape, said Warden Speer. His investigation revealed that two men in a touring car crossed Platt's ferry between Midway and Crockett on the Trinity river early yesterday afternoon. He believed they secreted themselves near the prison farm and waited until the camp quieted down before staging the raid.

The customary method, it was said, in blasting processes is to lay the charges of explosives at various distances from each other and, it is believed in some way the fuse of the fatal charge left behind must have been disconnected, so that it failed to ignite with the others.

The explosive, those at the scene declared, was concealed completely and its existence never had been suspected.

Widow of Arsenal Hero Tells Story of Disaster

New York, July 22.—(AP)—A pathetic little widow, who 12 days ago saw her husband dash from her side to his duty and his death, today told the court on inquiry investigating the Lake Denmark naval arsenal disaster where lightning struck which caused 21 deaths and $50,000,000 damage.

The widow was Mrs. Schrader, whose husband, Lieutenant Herman C. Schrader, U. S. N., was killed. Her testimony established for the first time that lightning which struck temporary magazine No. 8, which was filled with TNT, caused the catastrophe.

Mrs. Schrader, the first woman to appear before the court, said: "I don't remember the exact date, but I know it was the first time that lightning which struck temporary magazine No. 8, which was filled with TNT, caused the catastrophe."

POSSE BAFFLED BY MACHINE GUN

Mamie's Mill, Va., July 22.—(AP)—Using two machine guns of the .45 caliber riot type, with a killing range of a thousand yards, Gilbert Tyree, 22, mountaineer, alleged slayer, automobile thief and jail breaker, held 50 men at bay this afternoon when they came upon him barricaded behind a locust tree three miles above here in the mountains.

The posse, after attempting to arrest Tyree by a demand of "hands up," and receiving a volley from the machine gun which made them all scramble for cover, made for an advantageous position whence they could attack the man with a degree of safety for themselves.

Soon after this Rucker Brent, 20, of Mamie's Mill, came upon the man higher up the mountain, and shot at him three times with a shotgun before the machine gun was unloosed again, scattering dirt above the head of Brent, who immediately dropped into a deep ditch.

Tyree then disappeared. No one was injured in any of the fighting.

Corliss Faces Suit To Enforce $200,000 Debt

Los Angeles, Calif., July 22.—(AP)—Mrs. Eleanor V. V. Brewster filed suit here today to enforce a $200,000 judgment she obtained in the New York courts last March against Corliss Palmer, motion picture actress, for alleged theft of the affections of Eugene Brewster, wealthy publisher.

The suit declares that since the judgment was granted the film star has paid no part of it. Miss Palmer has lived in Hollywood several years and Brewster also spends much of his time in the motion picture city.

A GENEROUS PROMISE—"The God will make the plenty in every work of thine hand, in the fruit of thy body, and in the fruit of thy land, for good." Deut. 30:9.

PRAYER—O Lord, Thou art able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we can ask or think.

THE PULLMAN COMING.

The announcement that the Pullman company will establish at once a great remodeling and repair plant in Atlanta, employing approximately 1,000 workmen, emphasizes again and with compelling definiteness the strategic position of Atlanta geographically which makes it the industrial, commercial and financial center of the south, from Baltimore to New Orleans.

This particular plant is one of large importance. It employs skilled and high-priced labor.

The location of these shops in Atlanta means probably 3,000 addition to Atlanta's population. It means more. In all probability this great plant, which will repair, remodel and recondition all Pullman sleeping cars operated between Washington and New Orleans and Cincinnati and Miami, will eventually be expanded into a great construction plant as well.

Atlanta's marvelous stride as the center of every kind of economic and industrial activity in the south is attracting attention throughout America.

It is the fourth largest insurance center in the country.

Most of the mercantile or manufacturing establishments of national scope have their southeastern distributing offices and warehouses here.

It is the mail order center of the southeast, so recognized by the largest mail order establishment in the world, the Sears and Roebuck company, in its decision to locate one of its largest branches here.

It is the retail or department store center of the south.

It is the banking center of the southeast, with the headquarters of the sixth district federal reserve bank.

It is the jobbing center of the southeast in every conceivable line of merchandise—leading specifically in groceries, dry goods and millinery.

It is the American center of the bottling trades. It is the educational center of the entire south, with more universities, colleges, finishing schools and vocational training schools, than any other city in the south or southwest.

It is the cultural center of the south, leading in cultural entertainments and in the teaching of cultural arts.

There is a reason for all of this that is impregnable—more than just the "spirit" that is one of Atlanta's priceless assets, and more than the enterprise of trade organizations and citizens to promote and develop the community in which they naturally have most pride.

It is Atlanta's strategic and commanding geographical position as relating to the south Atlantic and Gulf states.

When General Sherman visited Atlanta more than a decade after the civil war, when the south had already made marked progress in rehabilitation, and the entire country was happy in a feeling of united security, he was asked why he made Atlanta the objective of his southern campaign.

He answered very promptly that it was determined to take Atlanta because it was the only place in the south from which every south Atlantic and Gulf port could be reached over night.

He illustrated it with the spreading figures of his hand with Atlanta in the center of the palm being only one night out from any of the large cities of the southeast.

Today Atlanta is only one night out from New York in the east, Chicago in the central west, New Orleans on the Gulf coast—"one night out" from close touch with more than 60 per cent of the entire population of America.

At a recent civic club in Atlanta the local manager of Sears, Roebuck company frankly stated that other cities in the south made site and other invitations for the great plant of that company that was almost irresistible, but it was impossible to get away from Atlanta's strategic position in the matter of postal zone distribution.

This is a situation upon which Atlanta holds a priceless monopoly. Coupled with the spirit of citizen cooperation, fair treatment, sound and progressive business methods, and the absence of all tendencies toward speculation and inflation, Atlanta is assured a foremost and permanent position among the real metropolitan trade centers of this continent.

CURBING DISTRIBUTION.

An Associated Press dispatch out of Chicago says:

"Water-clogs have suddenly jumped to first place in the United States market supply abundance, either of fruit or vegetables."

"The grand total of watermelon shipments is more than a thousand carloads a day, it is reported."

"Reports from the government bureau of agriculture economics are that watermelons at present comprise more than a fourth of the country's total shipments of produce, although the general movement is 4,500 cars heavier than a year ago."

"Prices of nearly all fruits and vegetables, wholesale, are lower, with watermelons at about half price compared with last July."

The Constitution has published dispatches from the Georgia melon belt that hundreds of cars are on the sidings not moving, and that growers are contemplating unloading and feeding them to their hogs, particularly as buyers are offering less f. o. b. destinations than the freight charges.

This is the result of faulty distribution. The attempt apparently, not only in watermelons, but in other fruits—notably peaches—to select a few primary markets like New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Chicago and St. Louis, and unload the entire Georgia production upon these markets, thereby creating glutted conditions, and by the un-failing law of supply and demand precipitating disastrous breaks in prices. There are thousands of markets in America today in which a Georgia watermelon and a Georgia peach are not procurable. Then the system of distribution is not only too restricted but in violation of the very fundamental of cooperative marketing which is to so regulate distribution that the starved markets shall be supplied and the overstocked markets brought to normal.

There is no such thing as even approaching overproduction of either melons or peaches if we base supply upon the full American demand, but there is if distribution is concentrated into a few primary markets, as seems to be the case now.

THE COAL PROBLEM.

The political commentators who are camped just outside the white pine reservation in which President Coolidge is dividing time between fishing for pike and tightening mosquitoes, say that as soon as the weather permits he will take up vigorously the coal situation. It would appear, as the news comes to the outside from the administration's official spokesman, that the president is determined to "do something."

There has been almost inexcusable tardiness on this coal situation. The fact finding commission worked early and late and made its report years ago. Its recommendations were regarded as sound and its facts, as established by thorough and exhaustive hearings, were in many instances startling. And yet the situation, from a government standpoint in so far as securing and protecting the public, has not been touched.

It is now stated from Paul Smith's that the president will endeavor to secure the acceptance by miners and operators of a plan for adjusting labor disputes similar to that embodied in the new railroad labor act. That is weak at best, but it is better than nothing. The federal government has no control over mining as it has over interstate commerce, thereby such an act governing mining can accomplish nothing more than through the force of moral suasion. And yet with the authorized publicity it may arouse public opinion, which is a powerful force when properly directed. And usually it is.

't would be better to put some teeth in the matter and instead of a method of voluntary arbitration adopt the recommendations of the coal commission, and at least establish a permanent fact-finding board. These were incorporated in a bill by Senator Copeland introduced in the last session, but the administration apparently gave it no thought or encouragement.

It is gratifying that the president at last realizes that coal legislation is an issue, and is determined to meet it, even if only half-heartedly.

The run runners seem to be running pretty fast, to keep so far ahead of their proli-pursers.

There's life enough in the old land to keep all willing workers hustling for it.

Of course there would be more house room were it not that we need so many gasoline stations.

Just From Georgia

BY FRANK L. STANTON

To the Slayers.
In winter days
With blizzards
field and town,
It helps to warm
When the snow
is coming down.
And then, when Summer's with you
And light in the sky,
Just sing of Arctic
icebergs,
Like ships a-sailin' by!

That's the way to sing—
Make weather-bells to ring
Make your own bright winter
And the roses of the spring.

There's trouble, if you seek it,
Even in a bird's sweet song.
Taint's always in the weather
When the tempest sweeps along.
But sing of Joy that's come!
Perhaps no more to roam,
And askin' in the bright light:
"Is everybody home?"

That's the way to sing.
Make happy music ring
In stormy winter weather
Or violet-ways of Spring.

A writer in the Eldorado Times well says that "a reporter is a person who writes about other people's vacations."

The newspaper borrower is one of the worst pests that appears at a house. You can always tell one because he always has a sneaking look.

It is claimed that rats attacked some Gainesville officers at a still-house recently. This is the first time that a fellow has been seen coming right up out of a bottle of liquor.

The editor of the Nugget hasn't spent but two nights away from Dahlonega in over thirty years. He then went to carry a little box of printer's ink along to put to his nose so it could sleep well. So as this is a little troublesome and inconvenient to do, we will stay in and get our information for the Nugget by wind reading, which seems to be satisfactory to our many readers.

Another Rain Song.
While the farmers pray for rain,
The poets seek to help by raising the rain, as in this, by John McFerrin, in the New York Sun—

"The rain begins with thus and thus
Thumping at the eaves
And the drops are luminous
On the leaves,
And in the tulip's tower
Kings of the rain-lit hour,
And rocking silver out of the rain
To the beehive of a flower.
A spider web her chandelier
Nerves her lace door.
Now beaded counterpane
Twinkles on the ferny floor.
Now in secret grottoes
Now the rainbow's hover,
Pipe sweet obligatos
To the tune of 'Jenny Wren's
Caught another lover.
Now the rainbow's hover,
Listening to hear:
Now a golden peal
Splashes near:
The chief of the revels
In a mist that clings,
And on a brimming buttermilk
Shiver sudden wings."

No Escape for It.
The Tifton Gazette man likewise takes it out on the weather in this fashion—

"The prophets take a flying shot at what will come and what will not, and if we pay attention to their stuff, we can catch the rain and storm and frigid days that really should be warm—or pleasant ones that really should be rough."

Though this indeed be very true, the new ones beat the old ones, and a certain satisfaction to be had; for who would want to play the part of a weather prophet and a weather chaser, and the good days and the bad?

A Royal Chorus.
Life worth the livin'—
That's what they say.
Heaven forgo'n—
Or we hope so, some day!

Says the Deacon.
Old times were mighty good times,
but the new times beat the old times,
and givin' you a healthy hustle on the road.

Training 'Home-Makers'
Best Basic Education

Editor Constitution: The article on "Training for Home-Makers" in our school by Mrs. Clifford Walker is worth the attention of every thoughtful man and woman in the state.

Just why schools, colleges and universities train young men and young women for every conceivable thing under the sun other than for the first need lying at their very door, is a conundrum, in the path of educational theory.

No reform in education should go over our heads that has not first gone through our heads, for enthusiasm that comes from the heart is the best of all. It is better than nothing. The federal government has no control over mining as it has over interstate commerce, thereby such an act governing mining can accomplish nothing more than through the force of moral suasion. And yet with the authorized publicity it may arouse public opinion, which is a powerful force when properly directed. And usually it is.

THE LIGHTS OF PARIS

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Sunday is the great excursion day for the Parisians. Anyone who can in any way scrape the money together goes out to the country. The eight big railway stations are crowded from three in the morning when the fishermen armed with their long rods sneak out to the secluded nooks where angling becomes a little bit of paradise. By eight the stations swarm with humanity. Everybody is armed with a lunch basket and most of the lunch baskets tinkle with the sound of wine bottles.

The parks and greenwards also are dotted with black-robed bearded gents, their dignified wives and their joyous offspring. The great zoological garden draws a hundred thousand on a sunny Sunday afternoon.

One of the noticeable things about Parisians is their seriousness. I walked over the fair St. Germain the other day where all the old-time Barnum deceptions were being practiced in the big wheels and the merry-go-rounds where people scream with laughter. I was struck with the childlike innocence in which grown-up understood listening to the spellers and hallyho artists in front of the concessions.

There were five police in a group.

linguistically, belong together. This is not to say that the name of Belgium, so called after a tribe of Gallic warriors whom Caesar encountered there 1,800 years before in the Roman forest of Gaul. However, one examines the question and twists and turns the facts, a monument to soldiers who never existed, remains a curiosity of the most common kind.

Balfour's Tribute.
There are few men who can pay so eloquent, and at the same time so truthful a tribute as Lord Balfour. His tribute to the Hebrew genius at the opening of the Jerusalem university last year was a closely reasoned analysis of the Jewish national idea. Recently he paid a warm tribute to Rudyard Kipling, when the latter was presented with the gold medal of the Royal Society. He referred to writers as "raking the dumps of the English language for words that shall range further, hit harder and more effectively than the service pattern words in common use." He added that "Gulliver's Travels" is as much as the world has known of the genius of Jonathan Swift. He said that "The Last Days of Pompeii" is a masterpiece of the art of the novel. He said that "The Last Days of Pompeii" is a masterpiece of the art of the novel.

Strange Monument.
A most curious monument was erected the other day at Waterloo. The chief of the revels was inaugurated the monument. "To the Belgians Killed at Waterloo." Now the truth of the matter is that in 1815 there was no battle at Waterloo. It was a Belgian soldiers. There were South Netherlands, of course, and they either fought on the French side or under the banner of the King of the Netherlands. Belgium was created out of the seceding Netherlands provinces in 1830. The obliging great powers drew the weight in the balance and the Flemings from the Hollanders, peoples who, historically, culturally and even

HEALTH TALKS
BY WM. BRADY, M. D.

PRELIMINARY STAGE OF HEART DISEASE.
Chronic myocarditis is impairment of the efficiency of the heart muscle from degenerative changes in the muscle tissue. This term, myocarditis, means literally inflammation of the heart muscle. It is rather degeneration of the muscle cells or fibers are gradually being replaced by fibrous or scar tissue which of course, does no work. This process constitutes slow heart muscle failure.

For years before the chronic myocarditis patient has no definite signs of heart impairment which the victim delirately elects to ignore, or perhaps he ascribes his condition to his age, or to overwork or nervous tension or indigestion or high blood pressure. People who are not quite so well as they should be, indulge too freely in the practice of self-suggestion, giving their ailments pleasant but meaningless names and "trying" this and that method of treatment which purports to be good for just such vague troubles.

At present dietary meddling is the favorite sport of the valetudinarian population. It is refreshing to meet a person who is not in perfect health yet entertains no freak notion or funny food diet. Probably there is more downright foolishness about food and diet marketed to the American public today than any other line of hokum. One of the fool notions is that a person with any manifestation of cardiovascular disease—heart muscle failure, hardening of the arteries, chronic Bright's disease—shouldn't eat meat. This is a popular obsession, one which turns up several times daily in my correspondence with readers—the fancy that albumin in the urine, there is a connection between foods such as lean meat or white eggs or from eating too much of such foods. There is no ground for this health examination for the recognition of any beginning of chronic myocarditis or slow heart muscle failure.

(1) Shortness of breath, (2) heart burry (3) chest oppression (4) chest pain, and (5) physical fatigue—all arising upon moderate or accustomed effort.

Dr. S. Calvin Smith mentions five symptoms, one or more of which should warrant a careful periodic health examination for the recognition of any beginning of chronic myocarditis or slow heart muscle failure.

The service will be conducted by Joel Goodlett, layman of Tulsa, son-in-law of Mr. Gwin. Mr. Gwin was 64 years old and was born in Nashville, Tenn., spending the greater part of his life in Atlanta.

During the world war he served as major in the medical corps. His death followed a lingering illness.

Looking and Listening

BY SAM W. SMALL.

Many persons in this country have, from time to time, suggested how beneficial it would be for our cabinet administration to be a our government such as they have in England, France and other European states. But the current experience in France of trying to form a the cabinet that can stick on the job until the seats of their breeches get good and warm, is far from persuasive to us Americans.

We are strong for "responsible government," but the fathers who framed our system believed frequent elections a good thing for national administrators, for instance, would provide the safe check against inefficiencies and usurpations.

Under our general system of two party government and with the power to elect every two years the legislative body that controls "the purse and the sword," we have kept our national governments fairly responsible to the people.

By that check the people have frequently estopped the administration from electing a house of representatives at the outset or in the middle of a presidential term.

In 1874 the growing antagonism to President Grant's corruption-ridden administration led to a democratic house the latter half of his second term and effectually stopped the evil courses in the executive departments.

When President Hayes was counted in by the electoral commission in 1877 he and a democratic house and two years later had a full democratic congress on his hands.

In 1910 President Taft was presented with a democratic house and in the election of 1912, with Roosevelt leading a party insurgency, the senate and the house were together only eight electoral votes.

Now all the signs point strongly toward the election of a democratic majority in the senate, at least, in the November election, and that would seriously help up President Coolidge's plans for giving his administration a clean sweep and winning form for 1923.

It is getting more difficult every week to induce French statesmen of administrative ability to undertake cabinet meeting or engineering in present circumstances. The jumbled political blocs in the Corps Legislatif are not a hot gamble to risk a vote of confidence in that body, and the ministry goes to the discard.

Usually our cabinets are fairly permanent. The personnel changes during an administration are by resignation or death. Occasionally, as with Daugherty and Denby, a cabinet officer is forced out by the pressure of public indignation. But ordinarily the cabinet member is presumed safe in his seat for four years, and many have served two terms.

President Wilson, of course, was secretary of agriculture for 12 long years.

In our earlier days cabinet jobs were not so eagerly sought and grabbed as in the present epoch.

Dr. Samuel E. Forman in his "Advances in History," says that President Thomas Jefferson had to advertise in the newspapers for a successor to Benjamin Stoddert as secretary of the navy. Robert Smith, of Maryland, was finally accepted as later became attorney general, and President Madison made him secretary of the treasury.

After a feud between Secretary of the Treasury Gallatin and Smith, forced the latter to pack his little kit bag and get out.

However, if you wish a cabinet job now don't wait to answer a want ad.

British Treasury Officials Claim Entire War Loan Was Spent in America

Officials Disagree With Reports That Part of Loan Was Used for Other Purposes.

BY CHARLES M. MCANN.

London, July 22.—The British treasury has issued a formal statement disagreeing with several points advanced in the most recent edition of the Anglo-American debt question.

British officials disagree chiefly with the latest statements made in Washington, to the effect that the Great Britain of money borrowed from the United States, they refer particularly to the allegation that the Great Britain borrowed a large portion of the debt for purely commercial purposes as distinguished from war purposes.

"It is not understood," says the British reply, "why the American treasury statement appears to treat dollars derived by the British treasury from the sale

SECOND SCHOOL BOND DISCUSSION DELAYED

There was no discussion of the expenditures of the second $1,000,000 for schools allowed by the $8,000,000 municipal bond issue Thursday afternoon at the meeting of the school bond committee, composed of four members of the board of education and four members of the bond commission.

While a definite date was not set for outlining the appropriations for group B of the school bonds, members of the committee expressed the opinion that no meeting would be held until after the next board of education meeting, when some indication of the wishes of the board will be made.

It was understood that an outline of expenditures for group B would be made at the next meeting. W. W. Gaines, member of the board of education and the contact committee, expressing that opinion at the last meeting of the board. Other members of the committee also had signified that they would outline appropriations for

"Strong" for Puffed Wheat—food that tempts with a unique deliciousness

EVERYBODY admires Harrison Wells for his good driving, his courtesy to his passengers, and his carefulness and alertness at all times.

Like scores of other men who use their minds to think, he's careful what sort of food he eats. His usual breakfast choice is the cereal food known as Puffed Wheat.

Puffed Wheat is whole wheat steam exploded 8 times its normal size, then deliciously oven toasted so that it crunches in your mouth like fresh toast. Experts say it is the most delicious grain food known.

Approximately 20% is bran. But to eat it, you would never guess it. It proves that food that's "good" for you can tempt your palate, too. Supplies minerals and other strength-building properties of whole wheat in amazingly delicious and quickly digestible form.

It's the kind of cereal you want in your home. Try it—see how the family takes to it.

fied, crying children clamored about for mothers dead or injured. The actual number of survivors could not be ascertained for some hours after the accident, which occurred at 8:40 p. m., owing to the fact that residents of Sparkill and vicinity took many in private motor cars to their homes. Scores of private cars were commandeered to aid in conveying injured survivors to hospitals. Most of those suffering from shock and hysteria were cared for locally.

NINE WOMEN KILLED IN NEW YORK CRASH

Nyack, N. Y., July 22.—The dead in the Sparkill accident are: Mrs. Catherine Barth, Margaret Reiper, Mrs. Reiper, her mother; Mrs. Englehard, Mrs. Henry Schultz, Catherine Albert, Mrs. Marion Pabst, Mrs. Mrs. Swenke, and two unidentified women. Coroner and police investigations into the cause of the accident began at once at Nyack hospital. It was reported that two more of the injured were dying, and that all the 43 passengers had been either killed or injured.

BRIEF HEAT WAVE BROKEN BY RAIN

breeze fanned the city so that out-of-doors was pleasant during the week. Thursday's temperatures started at the 74 mark at 5 o'clock, rose until the shower stopped the upward climb. Temperature readings during the day showed 75 at 6 o'clock, 78 at 7 o'clock, 81 at 8 o'clock, 88 at 10 o'clock, 93 at noon and 94.5 at 1 o'clock.

Consumption of water by Atlanta Wednesday reached a new high mark, according to figures given out Thursday by W. Zode Smith, superintendent of waterworks, when between 34,000,000 and 35,000,000 gallons of water passed through the city mains.

This figure is approximately 7,000,000 gallons above the average daily consumption and in considerably more than was used by the city to combat flames during the great fire in 1917, which razed hundreds of Atlanta homes. The largest daily consumption previous to Wednesday was made during the great fire.

The giant pumps were working at the rate of 50,000,000 gallons daily during the peak hours on Wednesday, Mr. Smith said.

ALLEN STOCK BARN BLOWN DOWN AT BUFORD

Buford, Ga., July 22.—(Special.)—Two mules were killed, another was injured and much farm machinery was damaged here this afternoon when the stock barn on the Bonn Allen farm was blown down by a storm that struck this section. The building was one of the most substantial here. Another small building on the Allen farm was also blown down.

More than 100 fine cattle were housed in a nearby barn on the Allen farm, which was not in the path of the wind.

Several buildings downtown were unroofed and much damage was done to crops near town by a heavy hailstorm. Little rain fell in Buford.

As far as known, no one was hurt.

EAST STILL HOPES FOR COOLING RAINS

The hottest July 22 ever recorded in most sections of the east passed uneventfully here this afternoon with only a hope.

As the third day of the summer's most intense heat wave drew to a close, it left in its wake a record of offices and industrial plants closed, and men and women prostrated at their work and on the streets, of drowning among crowds that surged to seaside and lake front, of both animals and humans denuded by the scorching weather.

Although suffering was intense Wednesday, temperatures were generally several points higher Thursday. Records of 100 were unusual and scattered before, but on Thursday such temperatures became the rule rather than the exception.

From all the reports of prostrations, drownings, suicides, deaths of persons already ill, all to some extent attributed to the weather, it was impossible to compile any accurate list of deaths for which the heat could be held directly and solely responsible.

In various places in New York, New England and Pennsylvania stores and industrial plants closed their doors so that employees might seek what relief was possible.

Gotham Burns

New York city experienced its hottest July 22 since the weather bureau has been in operation. After a rushing start with a 10-degree rise in three hours in the morning, the mercury reached 97 degrees at 3 o'clock. An hour later it had dropped one degree and some hope was held out for relief.

Formality went by the board in many court offices and visitors were permitted to remove their coats. Business was stopped in one court when a courtroom crowd, taking too literally the judge's permission to make themselves comfortable, removed their shirts as well as their coats and drew a sharp reprimand.

The record of the heat wave was one of mingled tragedy and humor. In Binghamton, N. Y., four persons became temporarily deranged and had to be restrained by police; and in Lowell, Mass., a man was tried on a brick roof. In Jersey City three heat-crazed dogs attacked two young boys; and in St. Armand, Quebec, the nearest Canadian point for Vermonters, an American invasion was reported to the beer tables. And so through the whole record.

Two Charlotte Deaths. Two more deaths and as many new heat records marked the progress of the season's most aggressive heat wave across the south today.

While the Mississippi Valley states and the Florida peninsula experienced no abnormal temperatures, a heavy rain fell in the latter section.

Not satisfied with the sizzling 102 deg. Wednesday as Charlotte's new high mark, the mercury squeezed up to the 103 mark today, claiming the lives of two persons. One, a negro laborer on a construction job, died after being overcome, and the other, a negro laundress, died while at work.

South Carolina continued to feel the blistering touch of torrid summer. At York, the high mark for the south was set when the thermometer registered 106 in the shade. The creek upon which the little city depends for water, was virtually dry and an emergency pipe line was put into operation.

Heavy Rains in Miami. Nashville led Tennessee with a high mark of 98, Chattanooga and Knoxville each registered highs of 96, and Memphis posted a high of 91. Louisville also clung to the mark set by Knoxville and Chattanooga, as did Birmingham, the high mark of Alabama. Montgomery showed a high of 94.

While other southern cities were setting new heat records, Miami was establishing a new 24-hour rain record for the month of July. Between noon Wednesday and the same time yesterday, 3.8 inches of rain had fallen in the city. The temperature ranged from 72 to 92.

Other Florida cities and New Orleans clung to their low temperatures. St. Petersburg registering a maximum of 88, and New Orleans standing one point higher with 89.

WASHINGTON DEATHS FROM HEAT INCREASE TWO

Washington, July 22.—(AP)—The heat wave which has swept the country for the past several days has been broken as far east as the Appalachian mountains, and the weather bureau tonight predicted that relief would come Friday to the Atlantic seaboard.

Local thunderstorms throughout the middle west and the southwest brought relief there today.

Lower temperatures Friday, but with a rising thermometer again Saturday west of the Appalachians, was forecast by the bureau, which said that there would be scattered local thunderstorms Friday in the Gulf and south Atlantic states and in portions of the middle Atlantic states and Saturday in the extreme south.

The death toll from the two-day heat wave in the national capital was increased to four today with the death of two persons. The temperature of 103 degrees was but one degree under the record July temperature of Wednesday.

DAMAGE BY STORM AT CEDARTOWN

Cedartown, Ga., July 22.—(Special.)—The heat wave of the past week was broken here this afternoon by a severe windstorm which blew down trees, broke windows and damaged fruit crops considerably.

The severest damage was done to the handsome residence of S. P. Holloway, where the storm demolished the elaborate pergola.

Country districts report much damage.

Huge plant on DeKalb avenue, Kirkwood, purchased by the Pullman company, and which will be used as a repair and rebuilding center for all Pullman equipment used in the south-eastern division. The plant, which was inspected by Pullman officials Thursday preparatory to necessary changes to fit it for its new work, is one of the largest industrial establishments in Atlanta, covering an area of 27 acres. It was formerly occupied by the United States Cast Iron Pipe Foundry company and prior to that by the Pratt Engineering company.

proving the buildings and property to fit the needs of the Pullman company.

The plant, it was announced in The Constitution Wednesday morning, will be in full operation in 60 days, ready and equipped for servicing and remodeling cars.

Mr. Oehm stated that while the buildings on the site were in a general way well adapted to the company's shop purposes, a great deal of reconditioning will be necessary. The Atlanta plant will have a capacity of approximately 600 cars a year, cars, which, when turned out will be to all intents and purposes new cars, Mr. Oehm said. This estimate does not take into account cars that are sent to shop for minor repairs and includes only those which are completely rebuilt, he said.

"With a plant in Atlanta," Mr. Oehm said, "every requirement of the knocked down, while the roof of the Congregational church was blown off. An automobile, parked at the curb in front of the church, was carried several hundred feet by the wind, spinning like a crazy top along the road and finally landing, completely wrecked, in a meadow.

The storm hit the central New York area at 3:45 p. m., and lasted about 20 minutes.

An hour afterward the temperature dropped 18 degrees from 93, bringing relief to sweltering thousands. No serious injuries were reported in this section.

PRISONERS FREED ON ACCOUNT OF HEAT

Raleigh, N. C., July 22.—(AP)—Prisoners in the city jail were released here today on account of the heat.

"Only a man charged with murder or something equally as serious should be confined during this weather," declared Judge W. C. Harris in directing the turnkey to unlock the gates. The prisoners were turned loose on their own recognizance, while the thermometer stood at 98.

One falling tree struck an automobile, wrecking it, but the occupants escaped without injury.

The full extent of what may have been great damage in some localities cannot be learned because telephone communication was disrupted. All service to Orlin, Middleburg, near Albany, and other points in Westmoreland was stopped.

Oriskany Falls, a hamlet about eight miles from Utica, seemed to be the center of the storm. In that village alone, about 150 trees were him and that he still owed him for liquor and wouldn't settle.

"How did you know Wilson was there?" asked the sheriff.

"He was already in the woods," replied the negro.

"When was this conversation that you had with Davis?" asked the sheriff.

"About 6:30 o'clock."

Wilson did not check out of the car rental agency with the car until 7:15 p. m., it had been shown.

Story Changed

After the killing Glover changed his previous story considerably. He said that he took the pocketbook and parol and went up the road. Looking back, he said, he saw the car cross the road.

"Pre-7 soon," the negro is quoted as saying, "Davis overtook me on the road driving the same car. He took me into the car and we went to Price's store to get some sugar, but the store was closed. On the way I stopped by my house and left my gun."

There was no reference to bodies being in the car when Glover said that he and Davis took this drive, towns Cross Keys.

Sheriff's deputies who went to the place where the bodies were found on Monday night, July 12, stated that the car had been driven into the swamp, the bodies thrown out, and the car stood in the original tracks.

Glover was asked if he collected the reward, and he replied: "Davis gave me the lady's hat, shoes and the man's watch and $3 cash," said the negro.

WHITE MAN IMPLICATED IN MASON SLAYING

After Glover was questioned by the sheriff, his lawyers, Warren Green and A. H. S. Weaver, both appointed by Judge H. A. Mathews to defend him, entered the Bibb county jail and discussed the case with him.

Davis was taken into custody at first because of his failure to report the discovery of blood that he admitted he found at the scene of the abandoned automobile until several hours afterward. The sheriff's office got the information from another party. Davis is being held on a formal charge of violating the prohibition law.

No additional charges have been placed against Davis, but the sheriff stated that he would present all of the evidence that has been disclosed to the grand jury when it reassembles.

The sheriff, casting about for possible motives for the slaying, announced the discovery of the bodies and last week that he had ascertained that Davis was in love with a young woman related to one of the other four men held in connection with the case, but that the young woman cared little for Davis. On the other hand, the sheriff said, the young woman was in love with Wilson, who cared little for her and was engaged to marry Miss Smith in September.

Davis and Wilson were acquainted. Ed Glover, the negro, said that he was well acquainted with Wilson and that they were friends.

Sheriff Hicks confronted Bars Davis with the statements of the negro to-night and he would present all of the evidence that has been disclosed to the grand jury when it reassembles.

The sheriff said that Davis still insisted that he knew nothing of the crime, and that he had nothing to do with the removal of the bodies.

BEAVERS HONORED BY POLICE CHIEFS

Chicago, July 22.—(AP)—Establishment of a national crime commission, directed by the federal government, was urged today in a resolution of the International Association of Police Chiefs. Uniform traffic laws and uniform extradition regulations were called necessary to effect regulation of traffic and crime.

The association condemned speed traps and urged close cooperation of police with other enforcement bodies to halt traffic in narcotics.

Daniel J. O'Brien, chief of police of San Francisco, was elected president and Windsor, Ontario, was awarded the convention for next year.

John A. Curry, of Niagara Falls, N. Y., was chosen first vice president; Morgan A. Collins, Chicago, second vice president; Daniel Thompson, Windsor, Ont., third vice president; and J. L. Beevers, Atlanta, Ga., fourth vice president.

Policemen Praised.

The vice president of the United States tonight eulogized the nation's bluecoats.

"The policeman on the corner protecting individual and property rights is a visible living representative of the constitution of the United States; of the government of the state; of the government of the city, and of law and order," Brigadier General Charles L. Dawes told the International Association of Chiefs of Police at its 38th annual banquet.

Mr. Dawes lauded the bravery of the policeman who "generally goes to the conflict as an onlooker, but is called to the front by the influence of mass psychology as is the soldier of war."

"Among the reasons why the policeman does not receive the same public acclaim and sympathy is because he is always at work and the record of his heroism is a continuous one and, therefore, attracts less attention," said the vice president. "Familiarity always breeds inattention at least."

Aggregate statistics often are misleading, Mr. Dawes pointed out, adding that every homicide "however unpremeditated and unassociated with the continual attack upon law and order by the criminal class, is charged up by the unthinking as evidence of the lack of efficient police supervision."

Chief Beavers recently was granted a 60-day leave of absence by the police committee of city council following his restoration to the head of the police department after 28 months of suspension. He was ousted by the police committee on charges of failure to perform his duties, but the decision of Fulton superior court was reversed by the supreme court and he was reinstated.

CITY COUNCIL GUESTS AT ATLANTA THEATER

Members of city council Thursday night were guests of the management at the performance of "The Pirates of Penzance," this week's musical comedy production offered by the Atlanta Municipal Light Opera association at the Atlanta theater.

Mayor Sims was invited, but was unable to attend. The city fathers occupied choice seats in the boxes.

Piles Disappear

No Cutting or Salves Needed

External treatments seldom cure piles. Nor do surgical operations. The cause is inside—bad circulation. The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby. The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method. Ointments and cutting won't do it.

J. S. Leonhardt, M. D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1,000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at Jacobs', who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.—(adv.)

Hallman Given Signal Honors For Citizenship

Henderson Hallman Thursday received two unique testimonials of his value as a citizen. One was his credentials from the commander-in-chief, L. M. Model of the Sons of Confederate Veterans, appointing him assistant judge advocate-in-chief of the organization.

Mr. Hallman has taken deep interest in the Sons of Confederate Veterans and he has been quite active for years in the work of the organization.

The other tribute received by Mr. Hallman was the appreciation of the directors of the sesqui-centennial International Exposition Association of Philadelphia incident to his well-attended address at the association to "the boy or girl in Georgia who had won distinction by a devotion of some act of heroism or performance by virtue of some other fitting qualification, and to the teacher who has rendered great service to the pupils of her state."

Special thanks were sent to Mr. Hallman by the committee, consisting of E. Florence Kimmins, New York, chairman; Alice B. Williston, California; Frances Stubblefield, Washington, and Edna Jones, West Virginia.

Mr. Hallman was chairman of the Georgia committee, consisting of himself, Charles T. Nunnally, B. S. Barker, A. A. Jameson and G. V. Cunningham, Athens. This committee recommended Mrs. Sadie L. Grant, of Covington, who saved twelve children from a burning school house, William Martin Penn, of Thomaston, for community service, and Miss Lillian Knowlton, of Americus, for general patriotic work in Sumter county.

These candidates have returned from the trip to Philadelphia offered them as their awards and they are enthusiastic in their praise of the hospitality of the sesqui-centennial and of the people of Philadelphia.

Connally-Paxon Anniversary Fete Held at "Homestead"

Dr. E. L. Connally and Colonel Fred Paxon, two well-known Atlantans, celebrated Thursday with an old-fashioned southern birthday dinner at the home of Dr. Connally in West End, known as "The Homestead."

The occasion was in honor of Colonel Paxon's birthday, and the 62nd anniversary on which Dr. E. L. Connally came out of the Confederate army.

Many years ago when it was discovered that Colonel Paxon's birthday was on the same day in which members of the Confederate army began the homeward march after four years of war, a friendship between Dr. Connally and Colonel Paxon was started, that reaches its climax each year with the birthday dinner-party.

Only members of the two families were invited to the Thursday dinner and when the roll was called a new "present" was murmured out and the name of Miss Sally Patricia Connally, 5-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Connally, was added to the list of guests.

Talbotton Citizen Hurt at Ellaville As Train Hits Car

Ellaville, Ga., July 22.—(Special.) Robert Freeman, of Talbotton, was seriously injured here Wednesday morning when the touring car in which he was riding was struck by a westbound freight train at the depot. When Mr. Freeman realized that the engine was bearing down upon him, he turned his car in the direction the train was going, which act no doubt saved his life.

The engine struck the rear of his car, causing it to turn several somersaults, completely demolishing it. The young man was thrown into a ditch near the track and knocked unconscious. He was carried to the home of his sister, Mrs. J. L. Duncan, whom he is visiting. It is thought that his injuries will not prove fatal unless complications arise.

A coincidence in connection with the accident is that Emory Freeman, brother of the injured man, had several fingers cut off a few years ago as he was alighting from a passenger train at almost the same spot.

Virgin Islands Get Peaches From Georgia In Good Condition

Kathleen, Ga., July 22.—(AP)—C. A. and C. L. Kersey, peach growers, of Kathleen, Ga., have received reports that a consignment of their peaches shipped to the Virgin Islands were received in excellent condition.

E. J. Macy, representing commission merchants of Boston, has arranged for a consignment of peaches to be shipped to the British West Indies. Mr. Macy will ship the fruit from the orchards at Kathleen, in refrigerated cars and they will be sent to Boston where they will be reloaded and shipped to the British West Indies.

GUARDSMEN GIVE UP Five Coast Officers Charged With Murder.

Miami, Fla., July 22.—(AP)—Surrender of the five United States coast guardsmen, under second degree murder indictments in connection with the killing at Miami Beach last winter of E. C. ("Red") Shannon, alleged king of rum runners, was announced by Sheriff Paul Bryan, of Broward county, by telephone here today.

Sheriff Bryan, with headquarters at Fort Lauderdale, reported the five men as Ensign Philip E. Shaw and Guardsmen P. S. Austin, Otto Meek, B. C. Smith and E. McAuld, all of whom are in service under authority of the coast guard base at Fort Lauderdale, where deputies recently have attempted unsuccessfully to serve the warrants.

Sheriff Bryan declared that the five men surrendered to him and that he sent them to Sheriff Henry K. Chase, of Dade county, here. Sheriff Chase said today that he had received no word of the surrender nor the custody of the prisoners. Action has been taken here by federal authorities to remove the prosecution of the indicted men from the state courts to the federal court at Jacksonville.

3 CANDIDATES QUALIFY FOR CITY ELECTIONS

Three candidates for city positions formally qualified this week for the primary election September 8, by payment of their assessment fees. W. J. Laney, secretary of the democratic executive committee, announced Thursday. The candidates to pay their entrance fees are Howard C. McCutcheon, for councilman from the second ward; Mrs. Paul West, for the board of education from the eleventh, and J. C. Murphy, for alderman from the eleventh.

Magazine Article On Negro Slaying Arouses Americans

Americus, Ga., July 22.—(Special.) Basing the accusation upon alleged misstatements contained in an article appearing in "The Nation," under the name of Captain Elbridge Colby as its author, interested Americans persons are moving to have Captain Colby dismissed from the army, or forced to prove alleged statements reflecting upon the courts and civil officers of Sumter county.

The movement is headed by Lovelace Eve, editor of The Americus Times-Recorder, who is a member of the interracial committee for this county.

Actual facts, said to refute in every essential particular statements contained in Captain Colby's article will be presented immediately by Major James A. Fort, of Americus, to the commanding officer at Camp Benning, where Captain Colby is now stationed. The assistance of Senator George and Senator Harris also is being sought in the effort to have Captain Colby removed as an officer of the army.

The article complained of refers to the slaying of James Smith, a negro soldier, by E. J. Fulbright, an American man employed as watchman at a local industrial plant. Following the killing, Fulbright was acquitted by a Sumter county jury. Captain Colby, in his article, it is charged, referred disparagingly to the manner in which the case against Fulbright was handled by Sumter county officials, the conduct of the trial before Judge Z. A. Littlejohn, who happens to be dean of Georgia superior court judges, and the fact that counsel for Fulbright referred in his and beloved commander, General Robert E. Lee.

In short, Captain Colby is alleged to have reflected upon the court before the jury to our "sanitized" fore which Fulbright was tried and the community in which the incident occurred.

LIFE UNDERWRITERS HOLD ANNUAL PICNIC

More than 150 members of the Atlanta Association of Life Insurers, their wives, friends and office workers, attended the annual outing at Dixie Lake Thursday.

The program committee consisted of Luther Allen, the president; B. V. Wiesberg, Count Boyer and others. In the morning swimming contests were staged, prizes being awarded winners. Harry Adams led in community singing and in the afternoon dancing was enjoyed, music being furnished by an orchestra.

Outdoor activities in the afternoon were interrupted by a heavy rainstorm, but many remained to dance at night. At noon a picnic dinner was served.

MAN HELD AS DESERTER FROM MILITIA CAMP

D. B. Robinson, 23, of 1 McAfee street, is being held at police station on receipt of a telegram to local police from Captain John J. O'Leary, of the 122d infantry stationed at Tybee island, charging him with desertion.

Robinson, according to police, admitted technical guilt of desertion, but stated that he did so under the influence of liquor and did not remember the training camp reservation. He will be held until national guard officers arrive from Tybee.

SUBWAY STRIKE LEADER ADVISES MEN TO SEEK JOBS

New York, July 22.—(AP)—Edward P. Lavin, leader of the striking employees of the Interborough Rapid Transit company, advised the strikers tonight to seek their old jobs at their pre-strike standing.

The strike of the subway motormen and switchmen had been lost, he said, "because of Mayor Walker's failure to intervene, and the steady desertions from the strikers' ranks." He urged the men to march in a body tomorrow morning to the Interborough yards and ask to be taken back.

BELSER SELECTED TO HEAD REALTORS

Dana Belser, former vice president of the Atlanta Real Estate board, was elected president to fill the unexpired term recently made vacant by the death of J. B. Smith, at a special meeting of the board of directors Thursday morning.

Frank C. Owens, of the Draper-Owens company, former second vice president, was named first vice president, and M. S. Rankin, of the Rankin-Whitten company, was chosen to fill the vacancy in the board of directors caused by the death of J. B. Smith.

Mr. Belser is manager of the real estate department of the Atlanta Trust company, is well known in real estate circles, as are the other new officers. The present officers and directors of the Atlanta Real Estate board include Dana Belser, president; Frank C. Owens, vice president; John J. Thompson, treasurer; E. L. Barrett, secretary, and J. C. Robinson, executive secretary. Directors are Ward Wright, Albert S. Adams, Forrest Adair, Jr., M. S. Rankin, M. H. Liebman, John J. Thompson, A. B. Cates, Frank C. Owens and E. R. Otis.

NEW COLORS TO BE GIVEN TO SPANISH VETERANS

Presentation of the new stand of department colors to the department commander of the Theodore Roosevelt camp No. 8, United Spanish War Veterans, will be made Sunday afternoon at 2:30 in the Red Men's wigwag, at 86 Central avenue.

Barney Bernard, past commander of the Theodore Roosevelt camp, and chairman of the colors procurement committee, will present the colors, which were given to the orders at a convention recently held in Athens, Ga. All members of the organization and persons who are eligible to become members have been invited to witness the ceremony. Speaking, musical numbers and the serving of refreshments will be included in the afternoon's entertainment.

"PIRATES" HAILED AS BIGGEST HIT OF OPERA SEASON

Only three performances remain of the dashing Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, "The Pirates of Penzance," which is drawing big audiences to the Atlanta theater all this week. Critics who love the delightful old favorite declare they have never witnessed a better performance than those given by the Municipal Opera association's company, and as the news spreads of "The Pirates'" attractiveness as a hot weather show, the audiences are increasing in number.

"Katinka," the bill for next week, promises to be one of the big hits of the season. It will present Vera Myers in her best part since she joined the company, and Lou Powers will return to the cast to play Thaddeus Hopper, one of his favorite roles.

Some of the most beautiful music Rudolf Friml ever composed is heard in "Katinka," which was one of the big Broadway successes of a few seasons ago. It is filled with sparkling comedy, gives opportunity for gorgeous costumes and stage settings, and is a typical musical comedy of the most modern type.

Seats are now on sale at the theater box office for all performances of "Katinka," and the advance demand indicates capacity audiences.

ARKWRIGHT ENTERS LAW PRACTICE HERE

Preston S. Arkwright, Jr., son of P. S. Arkwright, president of the Georgia Railway and Power company, announces his entrance into the practice of law, with offices at 904-7 Atlanta Trust Company building.

Mr. Arkwright recently finished his law course at Emory university. He now enters actively into the practice of the profession which his father followed and in which he was general counsel of the Atlanta street railway and lighting interests, afterwards merged into the Georgia Railway and Power company, later leaving the practice of law to become the operating head of that company.

Mr. Arkwright is a grandson of the late Governor and former United States Senator General Alfred H. Colquitt, one of Georgia's most illustrious citizens.

COOLIDGE DEVOTES DAY TO BUSINESS

Paul Smith's, N. Y., July 22.—(AP) Turning from the diversions of life in the Adirondacks, President Coolidge today observed the business program which he follows daily in Washington. He spent practically the entire morning at the executive offices, arriving at 9 o'clock and remaining until noon. Again in the afternoon, after resting at White Pine camp, he went to the offices and gave his attention to government business.

Mr. Coolidge has been kept informed through the newspapers of the situation in France with the change of cabinets and the fluctuation of the franc, but has let it be known that he does not care to comment on that subject.

With the eastern part of the country sweltering in a heat wave, the weather here has been usually warm for two days, but at no time uncomfortable to those accustomed to the heat of Washington. The president appeared in excellent health.

Secretary Wilbur, of the navy department, will arrive Saturday to spend the week-end with the president.

It is expected all members of the president's immediate official family will visit him during the summer.

At the executive offices today it was said in response to inquiries that no selection had been made for a successor to Commissioner Fenning, of the District of Columbia.

ENDOWMENT BOARD OF PYTHIANS TO MEET

Members of the endowment board of the Fifth congressional district, of the grand lodge of Georgia, colored Knights of Pythias, will meet July 30, probably at Lithonia, it was announced Thursday by E. L. Collier, a member of the board.

More than 700 members of the organization attended an annual grand lodge meeting July 13-16 at Bainbridge, Ga., and it was decided at the grand lodge meeting to hold a meeting of the endowment board of the Fifth district later in the month.

Funeral for Wynn, Flagman Hit by Train, Will Be Held Today

Funeral services for A. J. Wynn, 23, of 47 Beryl avenue, West End, flagman of the Atlanta and West Point railroad, who died Wednesday afternoon as the result of injuries received earlier in the day when struck by Atlanta and West Point train No. 10, in the East Point yards, will be held this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock from the Berea church, Hopkins, Ga. Interment will be in the churchyard. The funeral cortege will leave the chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son at 12 o'clock.

Wynn had been employed by the railroad company for about three years and it was stated that he stepped directly in the path of the morning train from a car on which he was working. He was rushed to the Piedmont sanitarium and died at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Doctors stated that his death resulted from a fractured skull and probable internal injuries.

PEARCE PRESIDENT TRI MU BIBLE CLASS

Colonial B. D. A. Pearce, commandant of Georgia Technological, was elected president of the Tri Mu Bible class of the North Avenue Presbyterian church at a recent meeting. Other officers elected were W. T. Shackelford and George Leater, vice president; Louis Cody, treasurer, and Carson Saville and W. F. Brooks, recording and corresponding secretaries.

The meeting was in the form of a supper which was prepared under the direction of Mrs. C. F. Whitner and Mrs. Roy McConaughy. A program arranged by Shellman Boston, chairman of the entertainment committee, included a group of songs by Miss Lucille Reams, accompanied by Miss Lucille Shackelford. Charles F. Whitner is teacher of the Tri Mu Bible class.

Knepper Reaches Semi-Finals in Western Golf Meet

Northwestern Stars Battle Chicagoans In Amateur Tourney

Stein, of Seattle; Dolp, of Portland, and Hisert, of Chicago, Other Golfers Reaching Semi-Final Round—Knepper Stages Rally.

White Bear Lake, St. Paul, Minn., July 22.—(By the Associated Press.)—Two golfing stars of the Pacific northwest will meet two young Chicago players in the semi-final matches of the western amateur golf tournament here tomorrow.

Brilliant victories in three 36-hole quarter final matches today over the White Bear Yacht club course, and a defeat in the fourth match qualified the following players for the semi-finals: R. E. Stein, Seattle, versus Rudy Knepper, Chicago; Frank Dolp, Portland, versus Kenneth Hisert, Chicago.

List of Victims. To remain in the championship competition, Stein defeated Arthur Tveraa, of Minneapolis, 4 and 3; Rudy Knepper downed William Medart, of St. Louis, 5 and 4; Hisert defeated J. C. Ward, Kansas City, 3 and 2, and Dolp won by default.

Survivors of tomorrow's matches will meet in the championship match of 36 holes Saturday.

Gorman, of Druid Hills Presbyterian, jumped back into the lead among the National league stick artists with an average of 62.9. Davidson, of Druid Hills, still holds on to second place, but he has not played for several games.

Hardin, of Jackson Hill Baptists, is showing the way to the batters in the American loop. Evans, of Pryor Street, still tops the National league hurlers. Last Saturday he held St. Paul Methodists to five hits in a 2-8 victory.

Still, of Gordon Street, was touched for 10 bingles by Jackson Hill, although he won, 19 to 6. Johnson, of St. Marks, took the lead by holding Edw. Workers to six hits and 4 runs. Williams, of Central Presbyterian, still leads the American circuit in home runs with three. Gulleige, of Westminster, has also slammed out three.

A. Hubert, of Pryor Street, leads the National with a trio of circuit blows.

BILL TILDEN ENTERS FINALS IN NET MEET

Brookline, Mass., July 22.—(P)—William T. Tilden, Jr., national tennis champion, today eliminated Edward G. Chandler, of Berkeley, Calif., from competition for the eighth Longwood bowl.

While the thermometer registered more than 115 degrees in the sunny grandstands, Tilden defeated Chandler in straight sets 6-3, 7-5, 6-2.

The champion dispatched his challenger in exactly 55 minutes. Chandler was at his best in the second, but with the score 5-5 he dropped a crucial service game. During the remainder of the match he was kept on the run.

With today's victory Tilden reached the finals of the singles competition, the other semi-final, to be played tomorrow, will find Takeichi Harada, of Japan, pitted against Lew White, of Austin, Texas.

Partner Advances. With his youthful partner, A. L. Weiner, of Philadelphia, Tilden today advanced to the semi-finals of the doubles tournament at the expense of the Japanese stars, Harada and Sekio Towara.

The scores in that match were 6-4, 4-6, 6-0. Texas stars figured largely in other doubles victories today. The Tilden-Chandler battle being the only singles match scheduled.

Alfred H. Chapin, Jr., of Springfield, Mass., and Berkeley Bell, Austin, Texas, defeated Howe Bancroft and John Doe, of California, 6-8, 6-2, 7-5. Lewis White and Louis Thalheimer, of Texas, defeated N. W. Niles, Longwood, and Teizo Toba, Japanese, by the same scores.

The remaining match in the doubles will be played tomorrow when Malcolm T. Hill and Henry L. Johnson, Jr., meet John Barr, Dallas, Texas, and Wilmer Ellison, Fort Worth, Texas. Barr and Ellison today won from Chandler and Thomas Stow, San Francisco, by default.

Miss Ryan Advances. In the women's invitation singles, third round, Miss Elizabeth Ryan, Santa Monica, Calif., defeated Miss Margaret Blake, Longwood, 6-0, 6-1.

Other third round results were: Miss Martha Bayard, Short Hills, N. J., defeated Mrs. J. D. Corbiere, Cambridge, 6-4, 6-1.

Mrs. Alfred Chapin, Jr., Springfield, defeated Mrs. J. L. Bremer, Longwood, 6-4, 6-2.

Miss Edith Sigourney, Longwood, defeated Mrs. Frank H. Godfrey, Longwood, 6-2, 3-6, 6-3.

MRS. BRADLEY WINNER FLAG IN NET MEET

Brunswick, Ga., July 22.—(Special.)—As a result of the recent visit of Coach E. Parker Moseley and J. K. Williams, of Mercer university, to Brunswick, an active campaign to bring the Mercer Bears to Long Island, eight miles from here, has been started by Fred G. Ward, secretary of the board of trade, and the Mercer alumni.

The Bears will do their football practicing here for the coming season. A special meeting of the alumni and those interested in the coming of the Bears has been called by Courtland Gilbert, representative of Mercer, for Monday night in the board of trade rooms to complete matters of detail so that everything will be in readiness for the football squad the first of September.

Brunswick football fans are enthusiastic over the prospects of having the Bears here and also with the staging of two practice games. One of the games is to be a varsity-freshmen affair, and the other is to be between either Benedictine college or Savannah High of Savannah. The Mercer authorities plan to bring 60 athletes, four coaches, and a number of trainers and managers to the camp.

The only stipulation they ask from Brunswick in return is to underwrite the railroad fare to Brunswick and back in Macon, and this is being done. This camp will be the first long trip the Bears have taken to prepare for a football season. Heretofore pre-season workouts have been staged in Macon. The coaches, however, expect much success to come of the camp trip.

YOUNGSTERS PLAY IN TOURNEY TODAY. The Chandler park municipal golf course will be the scene of a tournament for junior players this morning at 10 o'clock. Boys 17 years old and under are eligible to compete. The tournament will be medal play with handicaps applying and the winner will be presented with a season pass to Cracker ball games by Dan Michalev, president of the Atlanta Baseball club.

UNIQUE TOURNEY AT EAST LAKE. Atlanta Athletic club golfers will tee off in an unique tournament today in competition for a silver trophy offered by Joe B. Cleveland. The tournament is to be a high-speed affair, arrangements having been made to complete the play in three days and at the same time make competition as nearly equal as possible for players of all handicaps.

Play may be started at any time today and completed tomorrow or Sunday, according to Alfred H. Bailey, a member of the golf committee. The play will consist of 36 holes medal play, full handicaps applying, and the low net score gets the handsome Cleveland trophy.

The only conditions are that the play must not finish later than Sunday, and that no part of any game can be played between the two 18-hole rounds required for the contest. It is also required that each player register with the club professional before starting the first round.

CLUB TITLE MEET AT ANSLEY PARK. Qualifying rounds in the Ansley Park Golf club annual tournament will start Saturday morning and will last through the following Sunday. Match play will start August 2. The competitors playing one match a week until the championship is decided by elimination.

Bob Jones Tops List Of Golfers for 1926

London, July 22.—(AP)—Bobby Jones, of Atlanta, hero of both the American and British open championships, heads this year's list of 20 golfers annually compiled from averages in the principal stroke competitions on British links, beginning with Rothampton and ending with Gleneagles.

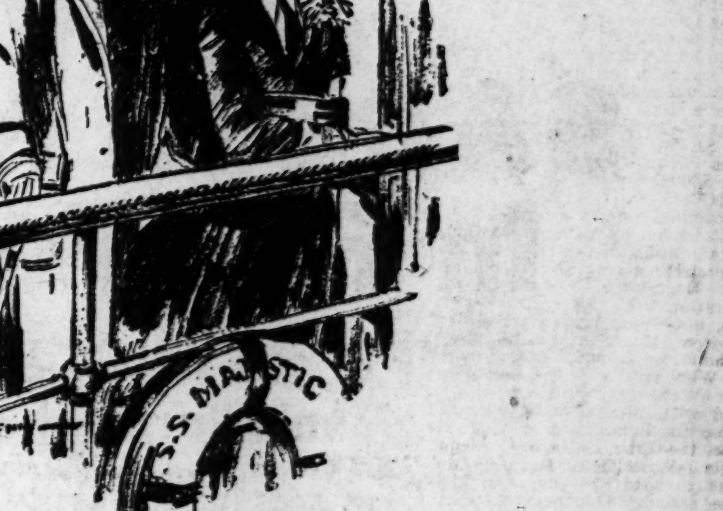

Eight of the rest also are Americans. Two of the nine Americans, Jones and George Von Elm, are amateurs. The averages, with the number of rounds played, are figured as follows:

Bobby Jones, United States (6) 70.83.
Abe Mitchell, England (12) 73.58.
George Von Elm, United States (6) 73.83.
Archie Compston, England (16) 74.06.
J. H. Taylor, England (8) 74.12.
Walter Hagen, United States (10) 74.20.
Al Watrous, United States (10) 74.40.
George Gadd, England (18) 74.61.
George Duncan, Scotland (14) 74.71.
Walter Boomer, England (16) 74.81.
Fred McLeod, United States (6) 75.00.
Frederick Robson, England (12) 75.16.
Bill Melhorn, United States (10) 75.20.
Tom Williamson, England (18) 75.22.
Herbert C. Jolly, England (18) 75.27.
Tommy Armour, United States (6) 75.66.
Jim Barnes, United States (6) 75.83.
Walter Havers, England (16) 75.87.
Ted Ray, England (14) 76.00.

British commentators remark on the strongly American flavor of the list. They also feel that it is a disquieting fact that only one of the eleven British professionals—Jolly—is a comparative newcomer. Jolly, for instance, won the "open" before Bobby Jones was born, while nearly all the rest bear names that have been household names to British golfing followers for the last eight or 10 years.

Free Boxing Show For Fans Tonight
A free boxing show to be staged in the Duncan gymnasium at 10 1-2 West Alabama street, is scheduled for tonight at 8:30 o'clock. Some of the best ring talent of the south will be carded for action during the show. Charlie Duncan, manager of the gym, also will appear in the ring for a few rounds of fist slinging.

Sid Taylor, local brawler; Benny Regan and Eddie Harris will be featured. Other local and out-of-town scrappers included in the night's entertainment are: Battling Kenneth Rogers, Tom O'Rourke, Mike Lewis, Irish Benny Cline, Kid Warshaw and K. O. Leo Niblik. The public is cordially invited to attend the free boxing show. The show is being staged in an effort to revive prize fighting.

"FOUND!" You'll Say Because "It's Toasted"

LUCKY STRIKES are made from the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos, perfectly blended.

Besides this supreme quality of leaf tobacco as compared with all other cigarettes—"IT'S TOASTED".

Just what does this mean—this phrase, "IT'S TOASTED"? The tobacco is oven toasted at very high heats for 45 minutes; then chilled with the moisture completely restored. The toast brings out the hidden flavors of the superbly fine tobacco. The chilling seals in these flavors; seals in, too, the moisture that has been restored. It all acts like a cold plunge on the pores of the body.

That's why LUCKIES taste so good. Why LUCKIES are always fresh when they come to you. Why millions prefer this uniquely fine cigarette.

Legal Tangle Threatens To Stop Title Fight

Chicago Promoter May Force Rickard To Halt Bout Plans

Attorneys Probing Clement's Contracts Claimed To Be With Dempsey-Rickard Goes In Long Conference.

Chicago, July 22.—(By the Associated Press.)—A $10 bill binding contract entered into by Jack Dempsey and Floyd Fitzsimmons with C. Clements, president of the Chicago Coliseum Athletic club, may block Tex Rickard's plans for staging a heavyweight fight between the holder and Gene Tunney here in September.

Attorneys representing Rickard and Clements were in conference tonight to ascertain the validity of Clements' contract. Rickard said that in the event the contract was held valid by the attorneys he would stop negotiations for the bout temporarily, at least, and may decide to hold it in New York City after all.

If Rickard's plans are blocked a consideration of the $10 payment will be made. Clements' contract with Fitzsimmons and Dempsey is valid. That amount of money, so far as is known, is that has been advanced to either champion or Fitzsimmons.

Fitzsimmons' claim. The Chicago Coliseum club promised to pay him $150,000 for the fight with Dempsey, the amount to be paid in installments of $100,000 and $50,000. Fitzsimmons claims the payments were not made, and produced a check several days ago he had drawn on the Chicago Coliseum Athletic club for $150,000 which was returned to him unpaid to prove his claim that it was voided the contract.

Clements' purported contract with Dempsey, signed in Los Angeles on March 13, calls for payment of $500,000 to the champion to fight Harry Wills, the negro challenger, here or elsewhere. It was signed in consideration of $10, and provides that $300,000 shall be advanced to the champion August 5, and that the additional amount shall be paid before the contest. In the event the fight is not held after the payment of $300,000 the Coliseum club agrees to forfeit that amount to the champion.

Announces Rickard. Rickard, while considerably annoyed by the existence of the contract, professes to believe that Clements has no claim to Dempsey's services. The New York promoter figured that if the Coliseum club really intended to promote a fight between Wills and Dempsey it would have to draw a rate of $1,750,000 before it could pay expenses incurred in promoting the bout as $300,000 has been guaranteed Wills.

The original articles for the Dempsey-Wills match were drawn in South Bend, Ind., and signed in Niles, Mich., at September under Fitzsimmons' dictation. Dempsey did not receive any consideration for signing that set of articles, but Wills was paid $30,000. Andrew M. Weisberg, a South Bend hotel man, and so far as is known Wills still holds the money.

Later Weisberg and his associates contacted with Clements and Fitzsimmons for the assignment of the contract to the Chicago Coliseum club. Clements followed Dempsey and Fitzsimmons to the coast on March 13 and the assignment of contract was made, and Dempsey then signed a new set of articles with the Coliseum club.

Dempsey Showdown. These were to have been played in New York with a Chicago bank until payment of that sum was made. When the draft was sent through and payment was not met, Fitzsimmons and he turned the papers over to Rickard. Clements claims the contracts are still in escrow here.

Rickard says that both his backers and the Illinois boxing commission have demanded a showdown on the papers Clements claims to hold. If Rickard's attorneys find that Clements has no claim on Dempsey's services, then the Dempsey-Tunney arrangements will proceed at once.

In the event Clements' contract is found valid, nothing can be done until the Coliseum club is given a chance to make good on its payment of $300,000 to the champion August 5. If the Coliseum club fails to make

INSTALLMENT LXV.

CONNINGTON CONFESSES.

Connington, after sipping a mouthful or two, suddenly recognized Furneaux.

"Hello!" he wheezed.

"Yes, you're right," said the detective. "Don't mind me. I'm present unofficially."

By this time Mr. Dingwell had reached the table at the head of the bed and beneath the window.

"I don't suppose the doctor will allow you to talk for longer than a few minutes," he broke in. "I had better explain that if you wish to make a statement as to recent occurrences, or events of a prior date, it is my duty to write your exact dates, which may be used in evidence against you or for any other purpose which the law requires. Perhaps it will make matters easier if I read what you said when Mr. Pantan and his friends found you last night. I have here a transcript which I am assured is accurate. You may feel disposed now to approve or amend it."

Without further delay, he produced and read, slowly and distinctly, Sheldon's notes of the broken talk which took place about twelve hours earlier up there on the heather-clad crest now, visible through the window.

It would need the pen of a De Quincey to depict the vivid though chaotic memories which must have flitted through Connington's bemused brain as he listened. He quivered slightly at the references to Spot, but nodded approval of the rest of the record.

"Yes, that's right," he muttered. "That's how it all came about. I was in a tight place, and did not care how I got out of it. I had been brought down the line to Baileul, and Major Pantan, who was inquiring into the drug traffic, soon proved I hadn't a leg to stand on. . . . You remember, captain, don't you, that I was absent for two days just before the big push? I actually told you at the time what the trouble was, but led you to believe that it was a general investigation which only concerned me in regard to the men in our company."

"Yes, you. They tell me you have a finger in every pie that's cooked nowadays by rotters like me."

"I do remember now," said John. "I didn't give the least heed to it then. I never suspected that any of our fellows had acquired the drug habit. I don't believe many of them even knew what it meant. To this very day I don't know myself."

Mr. Dingwell's Scottish shrewdness stood him in good stead then. He rested in an instant that Furneaux had gone to the heart of this extraordinary affair in the bit of advice tendered that morning. This was an irregular way of taking a deposition, but he did not interfere.

"O, it was easy to humbug you and the other officers," said Connington. "We drug fiends had our own means of communication, and I was making pots of money. That's how the major caught me out. Too many remittances to a London bank through the base. After an attempt to bluff I had to own up. Then he seemed to think hard, and began hinting at the one slender chance I had of redeeming myself. Some one had told him I was good at my job, and he said he disliked the idea of putting me away at the very time I was in line for a commission. He even laughed at the stupid coincidence, as he called it, which actually united our interests, because it so happened, oddly enough, that my company officer blocked his way to a title and estates. I thought I understood, and said so, but he was not to be drawn any further until I begged for a month's reprieve. He agreed. If I hadn't made good by the end of that time I was for it. Of course, if he was here now he'd swear at once that he was talking about the drug business, but I knew he wasn't. Five days later, when things were a bit quiet, he saw me again in Armentieres, and gave me the tip that a full size battle might be expected next day. That may give you your chance," he said, smiling as though he was thinking only of my affairs. I began operations that very night by starting some gossip among the sergeants, and hiding a good half of our Mills bombs. Then, when early coffee was served, I doctored your share. No trouble in doing that. You were worrying about the bombs. I gave you a stiff dose, but the devil would have it that the attack was postponed from 6 till 9, so, with second breakfast I had to administer another lot. That, in your already unsettled condition, turned you fair crazy. I wanted to make you reckless but I actually drove you out of your senses altogether. Well, that's the pretty story. A rotten business, wasn't it?"

Most fortunately, John's natural indignation yielded to a feeling of genuine pity for the broken man who wheezed out this sordid confession in gasping breaths, each of which threatened to be his last. All the bitterness, all the agony, seemed to have gone from his life since he came to Inverloch. Eileen's constancy, Alistair's untimely death, had conquered the longing for revenge. He could not find a word wherewith to taunt the poor wretch gazing at him with those gleaming eyes, the wistful, pleading eyes of an animal in pain rather than of a human being.

So, when he spoke, it was to ask the very question which Furneaux was anxious to put on his own account.

"When you came back to England, or at any other period after I left the service, did you see my cousin and discuss matters?" he inquired.

"Yes, many times. I had plenty of money, enough to last me for another year or two yet, so I laughed at the flivers and tenners he offered, just to speed me on my way, as he used to say. I wanted more than that—a safe allowance for the rest of my days—and I promised to hold off until he was Lord Oban. You see, I had failed in part of my bargain, which would not be completed until he was a peer and a big landowner. Then came the 'Oban Peerage Case' in the newspapers, and you turned up, fresh as a daisy, in the Gamma Delta club, with one of the smart divisions from Scotland Yard—that's you, Funnyface—and I knew the game was up, so I rushed north to collect when my man refused to come south. I gave him a reasonable chance. He has only himself to blame for what has happened. Of course, I wasn't such a fool as to think of killing him. What good would that do me? I might have planned something of the sort later on, if I was down and out. But not now, thank you. I wanted money, and plenty of it. If he refused to part I would probably come to you. . . . You had that at the back of your head, hadn't you, Mr. . . ."

"Furneaux."

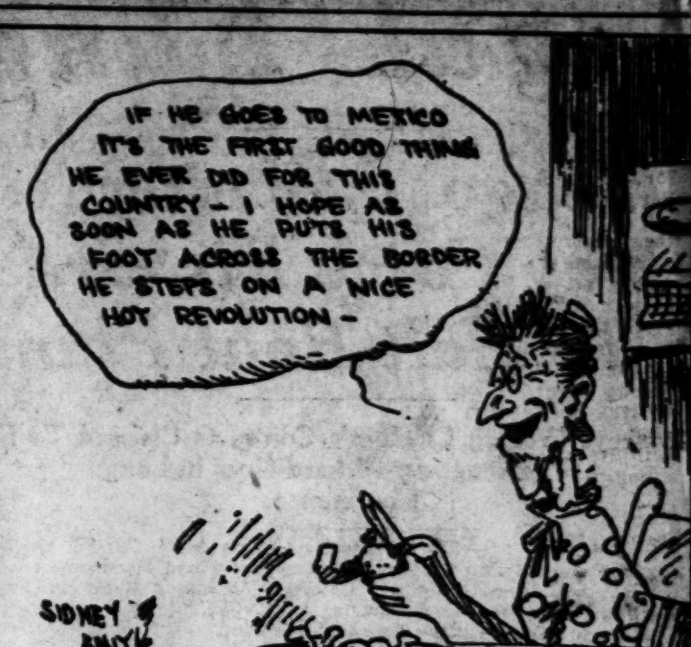

"Ay, Furneaux. The London crooks say you're the flyest cop in the Yard, and they may be right. Yesterday, when I took a breather while crossing those infernal hills, I began to wonder how far you were responsible for the present row in the Pantan family."

"I?" and Furneaux's eyebrows twitched with apparent surprise.

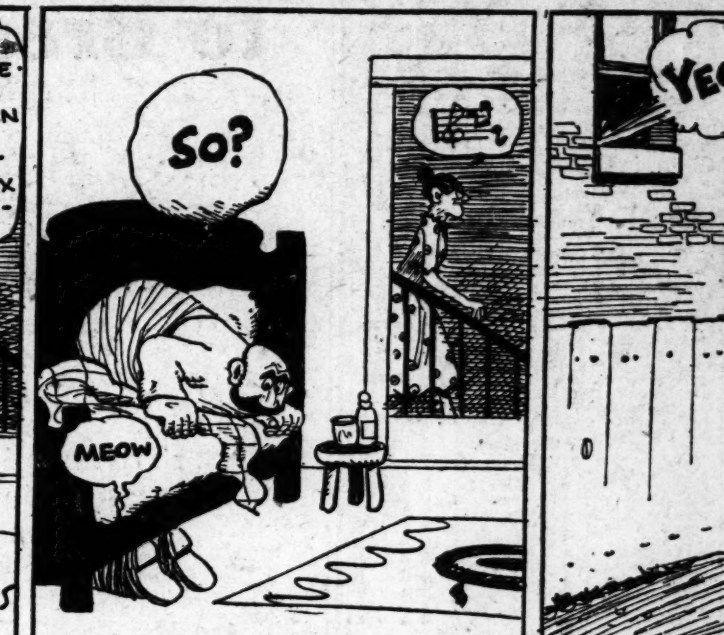

"Yes, you. They tell me you have a finger in every pie that's cooked nowadays by rotters like me."

Parties Galore Will Feature Gay Week-End of Midsummer

The cooling showers of the past twelve hours seem to have given inspiration to hosts and hostesses for parties galore are being planned for the week-end, which bids favor for the gayest of the summer season. Beginning with Friday's affairs, members of Atlanta society will be busy filling from one party to another, while golf and swimming will occupy their attention between these delightful events.

At the Atlanta Woman's club this afternoon a large number will gather for tea, this occasion to be marked by the musical program to be rendered by Miss Santa Mueller, well-known violinist, and Mrs. Kurt Mueller, one of the foremost pianists in the city.

Attractive visitors continue to be the inspiration for much entertaining, among the most popular of these guests being Misses Frances and Marion Butler, of Roanoke, Va., and Miss Alice Page Rhodes, of New Orleans, who are the guests of Miss Natalie deGolian. This group of visitors will be honor guests today at the bridge-tee at which Miss Elizabeth Scott will entertain at her home on Westminister drive. An interesting party of this evening will be the buffet supper which Mr. and Mrs. Stoney Drake will entertain after the wedding rehearsal of Miss Elizabeth Lowe and Toy Rhea Gregory, of Lancaster, S. C., whose marriage will be a beautiful event of Saturday.

Medical Squad For Third Year Wins Drill Honors

Savannah, Ga., July 22.—(AP)—Repeating their victory of the past two years, the squad of picked men from the medical department of the 22nd infantry captured first place in the competitive drill in its division at Camp Hammond Thursday morning.

The headquarters company of the 30th division was awarded first place in the competition for the best drilled squad with rifles. The medical department won first without rifles.

Company B, commanded by Captain Roy LeCraw, was runner-up in the drill with rifles, and the regimental headquarters company, commanded by Captain Jack J. O'Leary, finished in second place.

In the individual competition, both with and without rifle, the drill was exceptionally close. Sergeant Edward T. Barnes, of Company F, commanded by Captain Richard C. Edwards, winning first place with the rifle and Private Jack Kendrick, of the regimental headquarters company, commanded by Captain Jack J. O'Leary, capturing the award without rifle.

The winning squad for the competition without rifles was trained by W. P. Rhyne, a former Tech high school student and a member of the R. O. T. C. unit at the University of Georgia. The medical department, which he trained, has won the drill for the last three years, each time under his instructions.

The winning squad, representing the medical detachment, was composed of Private Bernard R. Wolff, Acting Corporal and Private William F. Lambrecht, Otto J. Sala, Bender Parsons, Jack H. Mahoney, S. J. A. Mellichamp, Robert F. McCormick and George B. Johnson.

The 30th division headquarters company, which is commanded by Captain Arthur K. Maddox, was represented by C. Ison, corporal, and Private V. Brooks, T. Westmoreland, G. Wilson, A. L. McKinney, J. Knox, Otis Berden and X. B. Lewis.

CROWD SEES TWO DIE

Plane Crashes Into Group of Children.

Venice, Cal., July 22.—(AP)—Children at play on the beach here yesterday watched with awestruck eyes as an airplane that swept the sky line and flitted in and out over the ocean. Suddenly the great machine veered and fell. The youngsters thought the drop was a part of the pilot's program. Instead of righting itself, however, the machine crashed into a group of romping children.

Madeline Kupper, 13, of Venice, and an unidentified girl companion of about the same age, were crushed to death, and James Lyons, 11, of Los Angeles, was injured dangerously.

Jimmy Crowder, 10, employed by a commercial airport here, who was acting as pilot, and a passenger were not injured and the airplane was only slightly damaged. Crowder was held on suspicion of manslaughter.

PLAN TO RESIGN DENIED BY WOOD

BY W. R. KUHN.

Manila, P. I., July 22.—Col. Carmel Thompson, his staff and eight newspaper correspondents have departed on the first of a series of official inspections to be made for President Coolidge. The president's personal representative left Manila in a maze of rumors and speculations, most of which were refuted by Col. Thompson. He announced several days ago that he would not accompany the mission unless specifically invited. A representative of the governor's office in the present tour, Governor Wood has remained aloof from all discussion pertaining to the mission and its objects, in order to give Colonel Thompson a free hand.

Whether the survey just beginning will deal extensively with political as well as economic situation is still a moot question among both Americans and Filipinos. When Colonel Thompson left Manila, he declared his mission was purely economic. After his arrival, he said he would report to the president on matters that would tend to obtain a better administration of affairs in the islands, and improve the economic situation for the welfare of Americans and Filipinos.

In view of developments since his arrival many believe he cannot ignore the major political phases.

Combination Sought By Holder and Brown, Wood Tells Audience

LaGrange, Ga., July 22.—(Special.)—Speaking before an enthusiastic crowd of rural and LaGrange citizens at Pleasant Grove near here today, J. O. Wood, bitterly attacked John N. Holder and J. J. Brown, saying that both headed departments that were "political machines" dominating politics in Georgia.

CATHOLIC WEDDINGS IN MEXICO INCREASE

Mexico City, July 22.—(AP)—There has been a large increase in the number of Catholic marriages in the Catholic churches, in addition to an unprecedented number of confirmations. Long lines waited for hours today outside the cathedrals, and all the churches are becoming more and more crowded each day in apprehension of their closure on August 1.

A. M. E. CONFERENCES ARE HELD IN POMONO

Pomono, Ga., July 22.—(Special.) The Griffin District Sunday School A. C. E. League and W. H. F. M. S. conventions of the A. M. E. church opened at St. John A. M. E. church Wednesday, with Rev. H. D. Canady, presiding elder, in charge. Services were opened by prayer being administered by Rev. W. J. Jones, R. T. O'Neal and S. H. Rowe. The presiding elder, in his annual address, pointed out the essentials with which the pastors should be familiar to make their lives and services count.

IRON PONTOONS FOUND DRIFTING ON HIGH SEAS

Norfolk, Va., July 22.—(AP)—Ships passing the Frying Pan and Cape Lookout are burning up radio waves reporting the presence of iron pontoons that have been drifting in the lanes of navigation for more than a week. The pontoons have been reported every day, and as often as four times in one day, since they were first sighted after they had broken away from the tug Susan A. Moran, off Cape Lookout.

Today the presence of the pontoons were reported by the steamers Agawam, City of Atlanta, Updegar and Essex. The pontoons are about 25 feet long, and are considered a serious menace to navigation.

day for Lakewood, where they will be the guests of Mr. McKenna's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Ellis, at their summer home.

DAILY CALENDAR OF WOMEN'S MEETINGS

The Anna S. Fulton chapter of the Children of Confederacy will meet at Decatur courthouse at 11:30 o'clock. All members bring a lunch and picnic will follow.

The commencement of the Daily Vacation Bible school will take place in the church auditorium this evening at 7:30 o'clock. An exhibit of the handwork done by the children will follow the program.

The Baron DeKalb chapter, D. A. R., will hold its regular monthly meeting this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. W. H. S. Hamilton, 338 Adams street.

Atlanta chapter, No. 57, O. E. S., will hold a regular meeting this evening in Joseph C. Greenfield's Masonic temple, North Moreland avenue.

Tallulah Scholarship Fund Is Named for Mrs. J. K. Otley

A $30,000 fund, to be called the Passie Fenton Otley scholarship endowment, will be raised for the Tallulah Falls Industrial school of the Georgia Federation Women's Clubs and named for Mrs. J. K. Otley, who, as president of the board of trustees, has worked with untiring and unselfish devotion for the education of the underprivileged mountain child of North Georgia.

The suggestion to raise this fund was proposed by Mrs. T. T. Stevens, former treasurer of the Tallulah school, at the informal conference called Thursday morning by Mrs. Otley, at the Piedmont Driving club, and met with the approval of the committee on memorials and name gifts, of which Mrs. Otley is chairman.

The matter will doubtless be confirmed by the meeting of the Tallulah board of trustees in October.

Gift and Insurance. The Passie Fenton Otley scholarship fund will be raised by gift and insurance, and will be officially submitted to the Georgia federation. Mrs. Stevens will have a leading part in the plan arranged for furthering of this scholarship fund, through long years of service and association with the work as treasurer of the school, is one of the leading clubwomen in Georgia.

Seventeen members of the board of trustees were present at the conference and were guests of the luncheon honoring Mrs. Stevens and also celebrating the birthday of the Tallulah school. She presented 100 volumes of "Our Flag" to the Passie Fenton Otley scholarship fund, donated by Mrs. Richard P. Brooks, the story relating to the United States and Confederacy's flag.

Honoring Mrs. Otley. The Mary Ann Lipscomb scholarship fund for Tallulah school has been completed and Georgia clubwomen will begin immediately to work for the endowment honoring Mrs. Otley, whose loyalty and devotion to the "Light in the Mountains" has been the inspiration and the source through which hundreds of Georgia children have received an education, and where many others will receive educational advantages in the future.

BIG AUCTION SALE IN CLAYTON TODAY

One hundred business and residential lots, known as the Hamby-Fielder property and located in Clayton, will be sold at auction at 1 o'clock today, according to announcement by officials of the Oglethorpe Realty Auction company, who will conduct the sale.

Following the auction of these lots, officials of the auction company will sell to the highest bidder a desirable business lot located in the heart of Clayton, the property of James F. Rainey.

One of the lots owned by the Hamby-Fielder estate is especially desirable as a hotel site. Clayton is the county seat of Rabun county and is located on the Tallulah Falls and the Atlanta-Asheville national highway. The city is a noted summer resort. The sale will be the largest held in the section since the 380-acre farm of John B. Dickens for a consideration of approximately $54,000.

RADIO RECEPTION THROUGH PIANO NOW POSSIBLE

New York, July 22.—(AP)—Radio reception has at last entered the piano. A private demonstration was given in the Aeolian building today of an attachment which amplifies radio sound waves through the piano.

Taking advantage of the synchronization of vibration between the radio waves and the piano sounding board and strings, the inventor produced volume several times greater than that possible through the ordinary radio amplifiers.

The appliance does not interfere when the piano itself is being played. It can be played either in harmony or discord while the radio music is going through it. The inventor is F. W. Roehm, of Minneapolis.

BANKS IN GEORGIA SOUND, SAYS BARKER

Savannah, Ga., July 22.—(AP)—Declaring that the banks of Georgia and that business, industrial and agricultural conditions as a whole are in splendid condition, B. S. Barker, secretary of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce today started a movement to have the Georgia Association of Commercial Secretaries, in session here, endorse the investigation of conditions now going on in the office of Solicitor General Boykin regarding the recent series of bank failures.

Further action of the association desired by Mr. Barker, and which has the expressed approval of the entire body, will include a statement regarding the actual state of affairs in the state.

When questioned today by a Morning News reporter, Mr. Barker declared that other states are taking advantage of the recent failure of the Bankers Trust company and the closing of a number of smaller banks dependent upon this concern and are using the advantage so gained to the detriment of the state as a whole and as an inducement to investors to remove their holdings from Georgia to other states.

The association, Mr. Barker pointed out, is in a peculiarly advantageous position to give accurate information regarding the state's financial condition, due to the fact that the membership is scattered over all parts of Georgia and "has its finger tips on the state's pulse."

He expressed the opinion that the investigation now going on would show to the world that the failures were due to causes altogether outside the state and not affecting local conditions. In the meantime, he said, he wants the secretaries to go on record as voicing their faith in the state and reaffirming their belief, as men who should know, that Georgia is "sitting on top of the world."

That he will receive the unanimous support of the secretaries was indicated by a spontaneous outburst of applause that followed his announcement of this nature. Following adjournment of the session, the secretaries closed with him in an enthusiastic throng to tell him that they were in hearty accord with his sentiments.

CREDIT ASSOCIATION FORMED AT DAWSON

Dawson, Gr., July 22.—(Special.) Merchants of the city held meeting Wednesday afternoon for the purpose of reorganizing the credit association. The need of such an organization is felt more and more by the merchants of Dawson.

It is believed that every merchant in the city will join the association.

ILLUSTRATOR TRIES TO SAVE BATHER

Biddeford Pool, Maine, July 22.—(AP)—Isaac Cook, wealthy business man, of St. Louis, Mo., died of a heart attack while swimming here today. James Montgomery Flagg, illustrator, plunged in to rescue Mr. Cook, but the latter was dead when brought ashore.

Meanwhile, Thomas W. Miller, former custodian, in whose administration, Senator Borah said, the transaction took place, declined through his attorneys a request from the senator to appear before a senate investigating committee.

SLAMS AND SALAAMS

By Louise Dooly

THE joys of travel, which I am enjoying vicariously (and inexpensively) this season through letters from my pictorial friends, have included facts of interest the last week varying in character all the way from the price of a French gown at the sale of a supply to the amount of the "cover" charge for afternoon tea at Henry Ford's "Wayside Inn" at Sudbury, Mass.

The Sudbury hotel, which has had free advertising, since the motor monarch bought it, surpassed in amount only by that which has been visited upon the silver itself, was built in 1881. It is a storehouse, too, for early American relics of various kinds collected by The Henry which are as interesting as the inn itself.

But how about the "atmosphere" of antiquity, when a "cover" charge is a premium of the guest's indulgence in early Americanism up to dates of 1881. And can't you imagine those early New Englanders, whose thrift established this wayside rest for man and beast, turning over in their graves at the dinner price—$2.50 per person?

THEN there is that matter of a Paris gown, which, at the rate of exchange when the letter was written, you could get for $35. The franc has since so far descended that it is now much nearer a lily than a lily. A French gown this week could possibly be bought for $30.

But what sort of a French gown? A woman of no taste can be guilty of just as great an indiscretion in the choice of her clothes in Paris as in America. Haven't all of us at times had to compromise our strict regard for decency with our kindness of heart in the comments we have been called upon to bestow upon the imported wardrobes of our friends returned from the style center of the world?

And have any of us ever seen a French gown bearing the stamp of all things to match and pleated skirt. On the contrary, mind you, except when she's playing.

The Helen's sweater was of white wool with pale blue and green stripes. It was a simple costume—a one-piece model of white silk, there was distinctly feminine touch in design and finish. Sport clothes have for a long time had no finish, as you might say.

THE other paper—the first one I saw—was full of sketches of gowns and hats which were shamelessly trimmed—thus threatening a restoration to the language of style of a word which has long been positively declassified.

Indeed, the text accompanying the picture went so far as to call attention to the amount of detail making the distinction of each costume. Where mere line has been the model, there is a new fashion, thus making it look different from all the other women's detail, and trimming are now re-asserting themselves in good society.

It is even an imminent happening that the afternoon gown, for several seasons as homespun and utterly without a trace of the once resplendent hedges of all dress occasions—the ostrich plume—is about to regain its prestige, and at the same time with the all-around fine feathers.

Did not all the crowned heads, throned and enthroned, at the smart racing meets in England this season wear plumes?—the female heads, that is. And these befeathered creations were not English millinery, he it understood, but it was made in France. They were creations from Paris. There were the Queen of Spain, called the best-dressed queen in Europe, the Queen of England and Princess Mary, not to speak of those deposed royalties of Portugal and Greece and the like who are not leading a purposeless existence, even though they have lost their kingdoms; they are being very effectively and gratefully used as decorations for the social life in the English continental capitals, notably the functions at which American hostesses preside.

And at the races and the other daytime occasions they are all wearing ostrich. Not only on their hats, but they have gone into the attic and revived the apparently extinct ostrich boa. Maybe it is a matter of economy on the part of reduced royalty.

They had laid these luxuries aside in their palmy days, and now with abbreviated incomes, the trunks in the attic are a godsend.

Anyway, fashion is again wearing plumes.

RALPH RADER HERE TO AID BROTHER IN CHURCH REVIVAL

Rev. Ralph Rader, internationally noted evangelist singer, will arrive in Atlanta Saturday to join his brother, the Rev. Luke Rader, of Central Baptist church, in a two-weeks' open air revival campaign in the air-conditioned Whitehall and Forsyth streets.

Ralph Rader's last appearance in Atlanta was as musical director and song leader for the Ritchie revival meeting at the city auditorium three years ago. He suffered a nervous breakdown last year and retired from the platform until the early part of this summer.

JUNIOR CHAMBER WILL BE GUESTS AT BIBLE CLASS

Members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce are to be special guests of James L. Mason's Bible class of Grace Methodist church, on Park and Leon avenue near Boulevard, at the morning session Sunday, July 26, at 10 o'clock. Invitations to attend having been extended at the weekly luncheon by Walter Powell, noted football star and coach, who is a member of the class and was principal speaker at the luncheon. Powell was an "All-American" selection in 1912 and is a member of the national rules committee.

Several special entertainment features are planned for the session of the class Sunday, when an attendance of 1,000 members is sought to regain leadership over the organized classes of the city, lost last Sunday to the Rev. Marvin Williams' class at Wesley Memorial church.

CALLES' DAUGHTER SAVED FROM DEATH AT EXPOSITION

Philadelphia, July 22.—(AP)—A Mexican cowboy saved Senorita Ernestine Calles from threatened danger at the exposition grounds where her party had gone to witness a rodeo. The daughter of Mexico's president had stepped from the grandstand to pose for photographers, when a riderless broncho, in a pitching and bucking frenzy, dashed toward her.

Alfredo Cuellar, a rodeo rider, forced his own mount into the path of the runaway. There was a collision and the riderless horse went down. By the time it regained its feet Senorita Calles had been whisked to safety.

SESQUI SUNDAYS PASS

Amusements Will Be Free On Sabbath.

Philadelphia, July 22.—(AP)—The common pleas court late today refused to grant an injunction aimed to keep the sesqui-centennial exposition closed on Sunday.

All amusements and other exhibits along the midway will be free to the public, beginning next Sunday.

E. L. Austin, director general of the exposition, testified to this effect in the hearing today for an injunction to close the exposition on Sundays. The 50-cent admission to the grounds will remain in force, he said.

A. M. E. SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION IS HELD

Meeting at Rockdale Park, Ga., the Sunday school convention of the Atlanta district A. M. E. church, as the feature of its Thursday session, plans and details of a model Sunday school. Other topics included in the day's program were relations between white and colored people from the point of view of the Bible and methods of giving a negro girl the proper start in life.

Speakers for the day were the Rev. J. L. Butler, Professor J. L. Wheeler, the Rev. L. A. Stroud, Pastor George Williams, W. R. Jordan, Chairman McFarlin, Professor J. B. Gardner, Professor L. C. Smith, C. L. Harper, the Rev. D. C. Thornton, and the Rev. J. M. Sanders. The meeting was reported by R. D. Stinson.

Montayne Arrested.

West Palm Beach, Fla., July 22.—(AP)—C. S. Montayne, Jr., arrested New York, is wanted in Palm Beach on charges of embezzlement of $4,000 from F. D. Patterson, who backed him in a projected magazine.

DAILY MAIL HITS U. S. DEBT CLAIMS

BY JOHN STEELE.

(Copyright, 1936, for The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

London, July 22.—For the fourth successive morning, Lord Rothermere's paper, the Daily Mail, in a long editorial attacks the United States on its debt claims. This morning's issue declares that it is fortunate, Secretary of the United States Treasury Andrew Mellon, arrives here Friday.

"Needless to say," the editorial states, "we bid him a warm welcome to this side of the Atlantic in hours so critical for him may be of immense service to the world."

The editorial declares that it hopes the opportunity of his presence will be utilized for a discussion of the whole debt question.

Position of Britain.

"In the present distracted state of European currencies and trade it may be necessary to explain to the United States government that while our payment of interest on our debt to the United States and the installment on the principal is a gesture of good will, it cannot be maintained if Great Britain is to receive nothing from the United States," the editorial continues.

"The people of this country cannot possibly continue for two generations to pay what will inevitably be regarded by them as tribute without receiving anything of what they are owed."

"The burden will be one far beyond their capacity to bear," the editorial states, "if a nation in ancient or modern times paying such an amount to a foreign country. If there is only the extremely remote chance of France and Italy being able to pay us any fraction of what they owe us, then our heavy payments to the United States must completely crush our industries."

"It would be a great mistake to suppose that in such an event as the genuine return of the United States to foreign governments a credit of the nation which is unable to pay, would be affected. These war debts to governments differ totally from obligations of state to private individuals. Their settlement has nothing whatever to do with currency stabilization and the financial stability of the United States. It is a matter of years ago proposed they would."

"The example of Italy proves this. She has returned her debt question, yet her lira is falling violently and oscillating almost as badly as the franc."

Differences Explained.

"This difference of war debts from other debts was perfectly explained by Lord Rothermere's paper. The allies, as he wrote, were partners in the greatest international effort ever made in the cause of freedom and they still are partners in dealing with some, at least of its results. Their debts were incurred and loans were made not for the separate advantage of individual states, but for the great purpose common to them all."

"It must be remembered that practically every penny Germany pays in reparations, supposing she ever fulfills the terms of the Dawes plan, will go to the United States, not to the European allies who financed her fight, bled and suffered and now sit overwhelmed with debt, with their economic structures shaken from the foundations to the summit by these violent currency troubles."

"It must be remembered further that the American government did not accept the proposal made by the allies that as the credits, represented by the debts to the United States had been given in American goods, so the repayment of those debts should be made by British or French, or Italian imports into the United States."

"In the long run, we cannot pay the United States unless we export to her more than we import from her and our exports to her ought to have risen to provide gold for payments on the debt. But in 1925 we imported from the United States goods to the value of 247,000,000 pounds sterling ($1,210,000,000) and sent her only goods to the value of $290,000,000, less than in 1923."

"The Fordney tariff has been imposed expressly to exclude our goods. It will, therefore, become inevitable for us to take steps to restrict American import into this country because we simply shall not be able to afford them on anything like the present scale."

"As we said from the first, when this debt question was raised five years ago, it always has been our firm conviction, though we lose by it more than any other country, that there is only one solution to the problem which is to simultaneously cancel all war debts between the allies and give Europe a chance."

$400,000 IN BONDS VOTED AT AUGUSTA FOR HEALTH ITEMS

Augusta, Ga., July 22.—(AP)—Unofficial returns show that the $400,000 health bond issue, voted on by Augusta today, carried by a majority of about 200 votes.

The bonds will be spent as follows: $200,000 for sewers; $100,000 for a nurses' home; $85,000 for a new reservoir; $15,000 for a contagious diseases hospital.

CONVICTS' BODIES BORE NO VIOLENCE MARKS, CLAIM

Albany, N. C., July 22.—(AP)—Witnesses testified today in the trial of Nevin C. Cranford, former convict boss charged with the murder of two negro convicts, that the bodies of the two negroes bore no marks of violence after death.

Dr. J. I. Campbell, a physician, said he examined the bodies of James Howell and Virgil Ross, an undertaker said he examined the bodies of Howell and James Terry. Both witnesses testified that no bruises or lacerations were on the bodies.

A number of character witnesses also were used today by the defense.

Valentino Wears Bracelets As Matter of Sentiment

BY MAURICE MERMEY.

New York, July 22.—As far as Rudolph Valentino is concerned the movie male is the barometer of the fort of masculine virility.

He may wear darling silver slave bracelets on both wrists, use pink powder puffs and lipstick in the dressing room before being "shot" for a picture, eat cream puffs or catch them, but he's a he-man, nevertheless.

After all, Valentino pointed out, the hero who kisses the heroine just as a setting sun sinks beneath the silver surface of a placid lake, uses the puff, tweezers, lipstick, mascara and other accoutrements of the woman's boudoir, as a matter of business.

"We must make a good appearance," said Rudy, who is so anxious to relieve misapprehensions that he is even letting his finger nails grow.

He produced several photographs showing him in orchid and blue bathing suit, in a boxer's attitude with heavy mitts on his hands, and minus the silver bracelets.

"Note the left arm," he advised. "See the development of the biceps and deltoid muscles."

Our hero was not so truculent as a few days ago when an editorial, entitled "Pink Powder Puffs," asked "why didn't someone quietly drown Rudolph Guglielmo, alias Valentino, years ago?"

With respect to that editorial he said his challenge to fight its writer is off.

"I consider his refusal to answer my challenge as a tacit retraction of the article," Valentino said.

"This stuff about movie actors using powder puffs is bosh," Rudy continued, twitching his finely chiseled lips. "I never saw any of them use it in public places. Nor have I

SEABOARD AIR LINE ASKS BOND AUTHORITY

Washington, July 22.—(AP)—The Seaboard Air Line sought permission from the interstate commerce commission today to issue $8,000,000 of first and consolidated 6 per cent mortgage gold bonds due in 1945.

Proceeds from the issue which already has been sold, subject to commission approval to Dillon, Read & Co. and Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co. at 97.75, would be used to partially reimburse the road's treasury for additions and betterments expenditures, to pay for short term notes now outstanding and to provide for new mileage in Florida.

Five Reasons Why You Should Have Your Eyes Examined

No. 4

The delicate muscles of the eye are certain to rebel if imposed upon.

Even though the eyes are normal and free from errors of refraction, eyestrain, often brought on by unconsciously subjecting them to unreasonable demands, is bound to result unless proper and timely care is taken.

Delay in a matter so important is often very dear negligence.

Can you afford not to be SURE about the condition of your eyes?

New York, July 22.—(P)—Facing weather conditions even worse than the previous day, cotton drifted lower and closed at the bottom, or 6 to 9 points below Wednesday, almost entirely ignoring rains that covered all of Texas and much of Oklahoma and Kansas.

The only response to adverse crop conditions was at the opening and immediately after, when October advanced to 17.00 and January to 17.01, or 11 to 14 points net higher, following firm cables and rain reports from all parts of the south-west, accompanied by very bullish reports as to crop conditions.

It soon became evident from the character of the selling, which included liquidation by Wall Street as well as southern and commission house pressure, that the trade, in view of uncertainties connected with the Bureau report due at noon tomorrow, felt that recent advances in the market had discounted the alleged crop damage to date.

There was a general disposition to even up commitments and wait the report which may felt might not confirm some of the bullish conditions having been compiled as of July 10, before the recent wet weather developed. It was the opinion on the floor that a yield indication of 10,000,000 bales would be regarded as about a stand-off, but with a probability that the report would indicate a reduction of 451,000 bales in the government report from its estimate of 10,451,000.

The selling movement continued throughout the afternoon finding little interest much less aggressive buying yesterday, and ending October off to 27.37 at the close.

Exports were 7,228 bales, making 8,004,217 in 48 hours. The spot market was quiet, middling 17.05.

SPOTS IN NEW YORK.

New York, July 22.—(P)—Cotton, spot quiet, middling 17.05.

PRICES DECLINE AT NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, La., July 22.—(P)—The cotton market was largely preoccupied today, traders continuing largely of evening up in advance of the government report due at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. While the start was firm on good Liverpool cables and early reports of considerable rain overnight in the western belt and prices gained 11 to 12 points, the market turned easier when the official forecast was issued promising better weather.

From then on through the session prices gradually eased off on liquidation by longs who did not care to carry their contracts through the bureau period. The decline carried prices down 10 to 20 points from the early highs and 8 to 9 points below yesterday's close. A slight rally at the end cut the loss for the day down to 4 to 6 points.

The start was firmer in sympathy with better Liverpool cables than due and first trades showed gains of 7 to 9 points. Prices eased off a little during the opening call, but soon rallied again, October trading up to 17.00, December to 17.00 and January 17.01, or 11 to 12 points above the previous close. These prices remained the high points of the day.

The market turned easier at the start of the second hour and continued to ease off during the day under liquidation, reaching the low points in the late trading with October at 17.00, December at 17.01 and January at 17.01, or 10 to 11 points above the previous close. Prices rallied a few points near the close, but were not able to show the recovery from the start.

A private authority made the condition of the crop 7.6 and the indicated yield 15,400,000 bales. The average yield on condition of the members of the New York Cotton Exchange was 7.1.

Exports for the day totaled 7,228 bales.

SPOTS IN NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, La., July 22.—(P)—Spot cotton closed quiet 3 points down. Sales 659. Low middling 15.06. Receipts 18,511. Good middling 16.96. Receipts 2,171. Stock 12,084.

AGED MAN BURNED TO DEATH SEEKING $31 LEFT IN TRUNK

Moultrie, Ga., July 22.—Special.—The $31 in currency that A. C. Belcher, 70-year-old mail carrier, lost his life in an attempt to recover from his room in a burning rooming house here early today, was found undamaged this morning.

Belcher, with his wife, had been removed from the burning building. Shag Norman, the first to reach the scene of the fire, who effected the rescue of the aged couple and asked the others in the house, was on his way to the fire department two blocks away when Belcher, thinking of the money he had left in a trunk in the rooming house, returned to the rooming house in the hope of getting it.

Belcher, reaching the scene, was told that the money was being saved, but it was impossible to reach him. They centered their efforts on that part of the burning building and prevented the aged couple from being destroyed. The trunk in which the money had been placed was only slightly damaged.

All of the some 15 or 20 inmates of the house had narrow escapes, none of them knowing the two-story frame building was in flames until aroused by Norman, who lived nearby.

PROBE LAUNCHED IN MOONEY DEATH

Special Investigator Fred Stephens

Thursday afternoon was assigned by Solicitor General John A. Boykin to investigate the shooting last Sunday night in a local hotel which resulted in the death of Roy Moore, of the Newsmen, and the wounding of Mrs. Frances McDonough, in whose room the affair occurred, and H. M. Phelps, a guest at the hotel.

The investigation was launched following a conference between M. B. Mooney, father of the dead man, and Solicitor General Boykin. Mooney, a guest of the hotel, was dissatisfied with the verdict of the coroner's jury which found that Mooney met his death as the result of a self-inflicted pistol wound.

Bennie Mooney, a brother of the dead man, according to information, began an investigation of his own, and claims to have secured several affidavits from persons tending to show that his brother could not have fired the fatal shot. The affidavits were said to show that there were no powder burns on the dead man's head; that the pistol bullet that produced death entered the top of the head and came out at the base of the brain, and that Mr. Mooney's arm was too short to have held a pistol in such a manner as to shoot himself in the head; that the pistol ball that caused death has never been produced.

Evidence brought out at the coroner's inquest by alleged eyewitnesses was that they saw that the man who was shot was in the presence of Mrs. McDonough and Phelps, and making the woman his beneficiary. The inquest was held at the hotel, and several seconds later, as Phelps and M. B. Mooney entered the room door, turned the smoking pistol upon himself and fired a bullet into his own brain.

Amusements

Atlanta Theater.

With only three performances remaining, the capacity houses that have greeted every showing of "The Pirates of Penzance" promise that this Gilbert and Sullivan opera will mark the peak of the brilliant productions given by the Municipal Opera company for the summer season. Whimsical, droll and appealing, the score and libretto are made up of light and amusing qualities which appeal to a tired, hot summer audience. Louise Hunter, the king in her exquisite singing and appearance, is everything that a charming leading lady should be. Arthur Burckley, as Frederick, the apprenticed pirate, gives one of his most delightful characterizations. His duets with Miss Hunter form one of the most pleasing parts of "The Pirates."

The Rialto.

Every woman loves jealousy in the man she loves. And fights against it. Pola Negri plays true to form in the respect in her new picture, "Good and Naught," which is at the Rialto theater this week.

But, at the same time, she makes jealousy serve her own ends in a combat of wits to win Tom Moore, the handsome playboy.

Pola's manner of arousing his jealousy in order to prove to him the true state of his mind is a study that every girl in love will profit by.

Loew's Grand.

The new singing and dancing revue "The Vaudeville Limited," presented by Benny and Elsie Barton, is the headline attraction on a bill of vaudeville at Loew's. Other popular acts on the bill are Wilson and Weber in their ludicrous sketch "The Game," Frank LeBlanc and company, in a scientific electrical novelty with comedy; Ullis and Clark, in a program of popular songs and hits; the Braminos in a pleasing musical skit, Tom Mix in "The Yankee Senator," the Loew picture.

The Forsyth.

Melody, mirth and some extraordinarily effective characterizations are the outstanding features of the presentation of "Forsyth" at the Forsyth theater this week. This famous musical comedy is one of the most popular of recent years and its production in tabloid form is a triumph for Don Lanning and his players. The score is more tuneful than usual and the well-known song hits are given adequate representation. Among the songs are "Irene," "Castles in the Air," "Alice Blue Gown" and "We're Getting Away With It."

The Metropolitan.

"Silence," one of the most dramatic pictures ever shown on an Atlanta screen, is the attraction at the Metropolitan theater this week. E. B. Warner, who starred in the Max Marcin stage play from which this picture was adapted, is seen in the leading role of the picture. He is supported by Vera Reynolds and a cast including Rockliffe Fellowes, Raymond Hatton and others.

"Silence" is the gripping story of a crook father is forced to make for his child who he has not seen since she was a baby. A Mack Sennett comedy and overture, "The Poet and Peasant," are also on the bill.

Coming To Metropolitan.

Richard Barthelmie heads the cast of "Hansson's Folly" from the famous story by Richard Harding Davis, at the Metropolitan next week. Others in the cast are Dorothy Mackail, who plays opposite the star; Anders Randolph, Pat Hanigan, William Norton Bailey, Brooks Benedict, Colonel C. C. Smith, Pauline Neff and Billie Bennett.

Tudor Theater.

A clear story of the winning of the west, of the hard men who fought their way in a hard country, is told in "Frontier Trails," starring Harry Carey, which opened yesterday at the Tudor for a run of three days, which terminates tomorrow. The thrills of empire-building, of the men who know no law except that of might, who fought the country, fought each other; and of one man who stalked among

Conservancy of Financial and Stock Market News Needed in Wall Street, Declares Barnum.

BY R. L. BARNUM

New York, July 22.—During stock market leaders and pools recently in control of the market made an effort during the early part of the day by bidding up General Motors, East Iron Pipe and a few other stocks to continue to ignore first the very serious French situation and next the absence of the big outside public in the stock market. Around 1 o'clock, however, the confidence of the leaders and the pool managers became exhausted and a very heavy selling movement started. There was a recovery today in French francs and in French external bonds. However, at this distance the only apparent change for the better in the French situation so far is the outlook for a coalition government for France. As far as can be judged here even a coalition government was not a permanent escape from a scaling down of its currency with possible temporary trouble from the French holders of internal French government securities.

Secretary Mellon is abroad, according to his statement, not for business but to visit his son, a young man, who is in the French army, and for the time being has given up all thought of business. George F. Baker, the assistant secretary of the Federal Reserve bank, who has close contact with prominent British and other foreign bankers than any other man in the country is in the south of France on a vacation, but steadily refuses to talk. J. P. Morgan is on his way abroad, for he says, his annual show of recovery there was so much much feeling here this morning on the part of traders who sold long and short stocks yesterday that only an official news ticker be permitted to operate in Wall Street. Within the past few months there have been several cases of unfortunate reporting of news by the Wall Street ticker.

Added Inducement Is Offered To Enter Screen Test Contest

CONSTITUTION ARRANGES FOR PHOTOS FREE

Now girls and boys of Atlanta, here's an additional inducement to enter the Constitution screen test contest now in progress. Because many people between the ages of 16 and 26 have sent in photographs which are not adaptable for the contest, The Constitution has made arrangements with Wesley Hirschberg, 347-3 Whitehall street and Stephens-studio, Connally building, to make photographs of contestants free of all cost to the contestant.

The Constitution wants to get the best possible photographs of the boys and girls who enter the contest and for this reason has arranged with two of the best photographers in Atlanta, whose reputation for fashionable work is the very best, to make these photographs.

Many of the leading society beauties of Atlanta and other cities as well as many well-known young men and women in various cities have entered the contest and have sent in excellent photographs. Some pretty photographs but some of these are not available because of the quality of the photograph. Some sent in little snapshots and others sent in
